BULLETIN.

ROME, June 27.—(AP)—A great earthquake has destroyed more than 100 houses in the island of Rhodes, in the Aegean sea. The villages of Chalkidiki, Arnima, Apollakia, and Anisotho suffered most severely from the continued shocks.

The island of Rhodes, of the Sporades group, in the Aegean sea, was visited by Italy during the war with Turkey in 1912 as a base. By the treaty of Sevres, which was signed by the allies and Turkey in August, 1920, Italy ceded Rhodes to Italy. The population consists largely of Greeks.

MICHAELIST, Roumania, June 27.—(U.N.)—Floods caused great damage in Transylvania today. It is estimated that 100 persons have lost their lives. Sixty were killed and about three hundred injured when a church collapsed to a dispatch from Joca.

The people had rushed madly to the church when houses began to crumble. The earthquake in the regions of Cujocina and Oltau have been destroyed, according to reports from the prefecture of Oltau, which say that more than two thousand houses have collapsed in the district which completely covers this territory, including the towns of Vlahia, Ploesti, Lunasasa and Ludeasa.

Groups have been sent to the stricken districts for relief work.

Quakes Rock Wide Area
LONDON, June 27.—(AP)—Most of the islands in the Aegean and Mediterranean seas appear to have suffered damage in yesterday's earthquake, which was particularly severe in Crete and Rhodes, where numerous villages, according to reports received by London, collapsed.

The most serious damage thus far reported was in the southern extremity of the island of Rhodes, where a light house was destroyed and one person killed and several were injured. The lighthouse was also in the other islands of the Dodecanese.

An earthquake was registered in Egypt, and at the Helwan observatory it was announced that the shock came suddenly and with such force as to put the seismograph out of commission. At Cairo, Port Said, and other points the earthquake caused considerable damage to the inhabitants, who fled from the houses. The damage, however, was not serious.

Several Killed, Rome Hears.
ROME, June 27.—(U.N.)—Earthquakes causing destruction of property have shaken sections of the Mediterranean area from Italy to the valley of the Nile in Egypt.

Shocks in Italy felt the shocks and the recording instruments in the observatory at Taranto were broken. Reports from Athens say that numerous persons were killed when the quake visited the islands of Greece. Shocks crumbled in Candia, on the island of Crete, and points on the Peloponnesian peninsula felt the shocks distinctly.

Fear Durkin May Escape from Court

Fears that Martin J. Durkin may attempt his oft repeated stunt of escaping his captors, and flee to liberty from Judge Harry B. Miller's court room, where he is on trial for the murder of Federal Agent E. C. Shanahan, were expressed yesterday by persons allied with the prosecution.

Charges have been made, and have even reached the ear of the court, that the bailiffs who are supposed to guard Durkin in court have been careless in their attitude toward their duty. They seem not to realize, it was said, that their prisoner has shot his way out of tighter places, and has a reputation as one of the most alert, cunning and dangerous escape artists in the crime business.

Police officials are especially concerned over the charges that a proper watch is not maintained while Durkin is in court, for they remember the fiasco that occurred when he escaped with twenty policemen about, leaving two dying men, one a policeman, behind him.

And the police assert that if Durkin got to feel that he couldn't escape the noose he would surely make a break for freedom, preferring the dangerous chance in such a course to the gallows.

Durkin, it is charged, has been permitted to engage his jailers in amiable conversation, and until Judge Miller, at the request of the prosecutors, forbade it, he was allowed to visit with his relatives during recesses. Only two deputies are assigned to keep an eye on the prisoner in court, and it is reported that their attention often has been diverted elsewhere.

Hints of Boozing Heard.
Reports that Durkin has come into court smelling of liquor have been heard, having been coupled with the recent exposure of a jail guard who had been making a business of serving prisoners with bootleg booze. Officials have questioned the truth of these rumors, nevertheless quietly investigating them, but they point out that if Durkin has been getting liquor it would not be difficult for one of his adroitness to obtain a weapon. Once armed, they say, his course logically would be to attempt escape.

Leo W. Porter, an eye witness to the murder of Shanahan, will be called to the stand today to tell of the killing.

PLAY GOLF ON SUNDAY, THEN GO TO CHURCH; PASTOR APPROVES IT

Shenandoah, Ia., June 27.—(AP)—Sunday golf under an indulgence of the pastor of the Congregational church was begun today. Twenty-five members of the class played around the golf course and then hurried to the Sunday school and church in "knickerbockers." They were welcomed by the Rev. L. A. Lippitt, who declared golf was a clean awakening and much better for the churchgoer than late sleeping.

It was announced yesterday by Assistant State Attorney Michael A. Romano and Louis L. Blumenthal.

Previous Crimes Ruled Out.
Difficulty has been experienced by the prosecutors in getting before the jury the various crime escapades of Durkin. Although five warrants for the killer's arrest were in the possession of authorities, charging him with automobile theft and with violation of the Dyer act, the court has ruled that the jurors may not hear evidence of it.

None of the past crimes committed by Durkin has been admitted in evidence by Judge Miller, although the state brought witnesses from California and elsewhere to prove them. It is the state's theory that since Durkin's plea is that he killed Shanahan in self defense, not knowing he was a police officer and not expecting arrest, they are entitled to show Durkin was a fugitive from justice on not one, but five charges.

FINDS HIS WIFE ALSO ANOTHER'S; SHE'S ARRESTED

Albert Johnson, a taxi cab driver, was cruising around in his cab last night when at North Clark street and West Delaware place he saw his wife talking to another man.

He drove up beside them and demanded to know why.
"Your wife," the stranger, Harold Loomis, replied. "This is my wife."
A general argument followed, interrupted when a police squad passed and took the trio to the Chicago avenue station.

There Mrs. Johnson, who is 29, admitted she was married to both men. She was charged with bigamy and her two husbands as witnesses. The Johnsons live at 5 West Delaware place and Loomis at 165 Locust street.

J. J. Mitchell, Bank Head, Ill in Hospital

John J. Mitchell, president of the Illinois Merchants Trust company, and one of the foremost financiers of the country, is at St. Luke's hospital suffering from a severe attack of indigestion, it was learned yesterday.

He was taken to the hospital Saturday evening from his country home in Lake Geneva.

Mr. Mitchell was 72 years old last Nov. 2. He told interviewers at that time that he expected to be active head of the institution until he was 90 years old. "Hard work and not too much rest will make it possible," he said.

At the age of 20 Mr. Mitchell came to Chicago from Alton, Ill. His first job was as messenger for the Illinois Trust and Savings bank. He was president of the bank at 26 which through successive mergers has become the Illinois Merchants Trust company.

HUSBAND'S SKULL BROKEN; ACCUSES WIFE, ADMIRER

Emil Hammer, 32 years old, 7620 North Ashland boulevard, is at the John B. Murphy hospital suffering from fracture of the skull, bruises about the body and other injuries that physicians say may prove fatal.

Hammer told the Town Hall police that his estranged wife, with whom he formerly resided at the Sheridan-Plaza hotel, Sheridan road and Wilson avenue, had telephoned him last night to come to the hotel and get his clothes, saying their temporary separation was to be permanent. When he arrived at his wife's room, he said, he was met by her and a man known as T. Riley, said to be a turfman. Mrs. Hammer, he said, began throwing various articles at him, and when he resisted Riley struck him twice with the butt of a revolver, knocking him unconscious.

When he recovered consciousness the two were gone. The hotel management had him removed to the hospital and notified the police.

NURSE SHOTS DURAND COUSIN AT LAKE FOREST

Uses Mail Revolver; Jealousy Blamed.

Norman Hewitt, 50 years old a second cousin of Scott Durand, Lake Bluff millionaire sportsman, was shot and instantly killed yesterday morning in his Lake Forest home by Miss Nora Renwick, 30 years old. The latter, who was formerly employed as a nurse for Hewitt's aged mother, who died on June 9, used the last bullet in her revolver to end her own life.

Miss Renwick had been employed recently at the home of A. E. Dennis, 339 Washington road, Glenview, an official of the First National bank. Yesterday she received a package from a mail order firm, supposedly containing a revolver. When the bodies were discovered, the weapon, partially wrapped in tissue paper, was tightly clutched in her right hand.

Search Yields No Clues.
Chief Alfred Hopman of the Lake Forest police searched her room and also the Hewitt home for documents that would give a clue to the motive for the killing. The woman, however, had carefully destroyed all her correspondence and there were no letters from her to Hewitt.

But in her purse were numerous clippings, most of them dealing with the inconstancy of men to women. "Man's love is of a man's life a thing apart," was one of the quotations. This led the police to believe that she had an affair that had cooled or an affection that was not requited drove Miss Renwick to the killing.

Believes Jealousy Motive.
Hewitt was a certified public accountant and was connected with a Lake Forest automobile sales firm. He was a bachelor. Andrew R. Dole, of 220 N. Euclid avenue, Oak Park, whose wife is a first cousin of the slain man, said that Hewitt had shown attention to a nurse who cared for Mrs. Hewitt just before her death.

This may have caused Miss Renwick to become jealous, he believes. Members of the firm with which Hewitt was associated, C. G. Wendan & Sons, recalled seeing him with one of the nurses, a Miss Lakin, who is said to have been at the Mayo brothers' hospital in Rochester, Minn., at one time.

Little could be learned by the police of Miss Renwick's family connections. She has a brother, B. N. Renwick, living at Williamsfield, Ill. Several months ago she was employed by Mrs. Russell Lord of Lake Forest, but had never talked about her private life.

Enters Home in Morning.
The nurse appeared at the door of the Hewitt home, 316 Deer Path avenue, next to the First Presbyterian church of Lake Forest, about 10 a. m. Miss Renwick's hands Mrs. Fairman noted the tissue wrapped package containing the revolver. The housekeeper, who is deaf, went upstairs and did not return for nearly three hours. She did not hear the shots. When she entered the sitting room on the first floor it was in great disorder. Both bodies were sprawled on the floor.

Hewitt Shot in Heart.
Hewitt had fallen across the threshold leading to the dining room. He had been shot once in the abdomen and once through the back, the second bullet penetrating his heart. Miss Renwick's body lay on the opposite side of the room. She had shot herself through the head. Three bullets had gone wild. One struck the ceiling and two were found in the walls.

In their struggle the couple had overturned a floor lamp and several vases, upset a table and chairs and displaced the rugs. Reconstructing the shooting, the police believe that the first shot went wild and that Hewitt seized the woman and was trying to take the revolver from her when he was shot in the abdomen. Then, as she staggered away, Miss Renwick followed, took careful aim and fired into his body again.

Hewitt's mother, Mrs. Fannie H. Hewitt, was the widow of Alfred B. Hewitt, a member of the Board of Trade. She died at the age of 87 after having been an invalid for some years. The nurse left the household more than a year ago. Several times, however, she had sent gifts of flowers to the invalid.

Poisons Girl, Kills Self as Romance Ends

Refusing to give up his pretty neighbor, Irene Anderson, and return to his wife and two little children, Lew Goldman, 32 years old, prominent building contractor of Gary, Ind., yesterday decided to poison his sweetheart and then take his own life. As a result Goldman is dead at his home, 1507 West 5th avenue, Gary, and Mrs. Anderson is in a serious condition at her home, 1707 West 5th avenue, two blocks away.

Mrs. Anderson, who is 25 years old and attractive, last night revealed the story of a clandestine love affair that began two years ago and ended after a tumultuous ride Saturday night after Goldman had begged for two days to see her alone. The girl was semi-conscious from the effect of strychnine.

Finally Consented to Ride.
Fearing bodily harm, she repeatedly refused to drive with him, the girl declared. But her lover wept, implored and threatened suicide. She finally consented. There followed a crazy ride up one street and down another, in the glare of the Gary steel mills, where Irene's husband, E. W. Anderson, is a foreman.

Suddenly Goldman brought the car to a stop and drew out a pint bottle of wine. He insisted that she take a drink. Mrs. Anderson refused, and Goldman took a big swallow to reassure her. After the first sip, the girl said, she suspected something wrong. But the man continued to drink and to force her to drink, too. In a few minutes he slumped over unconscious on her shoulder.

Goes to Store for Aid.
Stumbling from the car, the young woman made her way to a drug store at 5th avenue and Buchanan street to seek aid. The couple was taken to the Methodist hospital but Goldman was dead when they arrived. It was said the girl will probably recover.

When informed of her husband's death, Mrs. Goldman asserted she was not surprised because she had known of his attachment for two years. The girl's husband received his wife at their home with tears in his eyes.

About two years ago, Goldman was accused of robbery and was indicted. He was out on $5,000 bond. It was learned that he first planned to fly to Honolulu and take Mrs. Anderson with him. When she refused, he conceived the double death plan instead.

Two Previous Attempts.
Twice before within a month, Goldman had tried to take his own life, the girl said. He swallowed a quantity of poison in her presence, but she summoned her brother, Thomas Reynolds, and forced Goldman to drink warm milk, which revived him. Another time, he ran through closed gates into the path of a Monon flyer, but misjudged the distance and got on the railroad tracks a minute too late.

Lena Goldman, mother of the dead man, left yesterday for Wisconsin and last night had not been told of her son's death. She is said to be the owner of numerous apartment buildings in Gary and wealthy. It was her wine, saved for sacramental purposes, which Goldman took.

Police are trying to discover where he purchased the strychnine. An inquest will be held today.

PLAN TO HOLD CAMPAIGN FUND HEARINGS HERE

Illinois Primary Is Next on Program.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., June 27.—(Special.)—Reports tonight are that soon after adjournment of congress, the senate's special election slush fund committee will go to Chicago to investigate charges that public utilities interests combined with the Small-Lundin Republican faction to defeat Senator McKinley and nominate Frank L. Smith, chairman of the state utilities commission.

Result of Caraway Speech.
This was brought about, it is said, by the speech of Senator Caraway [Dem., Ark.], in the senate yesterday. He asserted that Illinois rumors place the cost of Smith's campaign in excess of $2,000,000, and insisted that the committee undertake an investigation promptly before the trails are lost.

It has been the committee's intention to hear a few remaining witnesses on phases of the record in the senatorial primary, and then suspend further hearings until auditors dispatched today to Westerville, O., to examine the books of the Anti-Saloon league report.

Will Quiz Attorney General.
When the hearings are resumed tomorrow, George W. Woodruff, attorney general of Pennsylvania, will be questioned at some length on the activities of a state prohibition law enforcing bureau, created in his department by Governor Pinchot, and maintained by a special fund furnished by the Pennsylvania W. C. T. U.

DENY CARAWAY CHARGE

Emphatic denials on the one hand, and calm refusals to comment on the other, met the sensational charges of Senator Caraway [Dem., Ark.] that huge sums were corruptly raised to buy votes in the recent Illinois senatorial primary when statements were sought yesterday.

Samuel Insull, who has become one of the principal figures in the senatorial slush fund inquiry by reason of Senator Caraway's charge that he donated $500,000 to the campaign fund of Col. Frank L. Smith, refused to comment.

Insull Refuses Comment.
When told of the Caraway statement that he had paid a large amount unwillingly because of fear that rates of his public utilities might be cut by Col. Smith as chairman of the Illinois commerce commission, Mr. Insull simply said:

"I will not talk about it."
Dan Schuyler, the Chicago attorney named by Senator Caraway as the Insull agent in distributing the money, asserted the accusation was ridiculous. But he would not enter into a discussion of the facts, nor tell whether he made any contributions.

"If I'm called as a witness before the senate I'll willingly answer all their questions," said Mr. Schuyler. "And I predict that I'll make a most uninteresting witness."

Denies Colored Section Charge.
Replying to Caraway's charge that he had spent large sums to collect votes in the colored wards of Chicago, Mr. Schuyler said:

"I've heard a lot of talk about large amounts being poured into the colored district during the campaign, and that is also utterly ridiculous."
Samuel Etelson, former corporation counsel, Schuyler's law partner, refused to comment.

Col. Smith, named in Caraway's attack as holding the cudgel of his rate making power over the public utility magnates, could not be interviewed, for he is in the Henrotin hospital recovering from an operation performed several weeks ago.

Smith Ignorant of Charges.
William Culver, an officer of the commerce commission and confidential man for Col. Smith, declared the latter knew nothing of the sensation sprung in the senate, of the charges that $2,000,000 was spent in his behalf. Newspapers are denied the patient.

"But you may say for me that Caraway is a damned liar," said Culver vehemently. "He is taking advantage of Col. Smith's illness, and is spreading a false, insidious propaganda aimed at only one object. That is to poison the minds of voters against Col. Smith. Caraway, a Democrat, is talking for the benefit of George Brennan, the Democratic candidate for Illinois senator."

Senator McKinley, given the lesser heat of Senator Caraway's assault, and

TRAFFIC DELAYED 5,687 HOURS BY OPENING BRIDGES

Report for Year Also Shows Huge Cost.

Chicago's open bridges halted traffic an estimated 5,687 hours last year and at the same time it cost the taxpayers of the city nearly three-quarters of a million dollars to pay for their operation.

These new facts in support of the necessity of the open bridge nuisance came to light yesterday in the annual report of William J. Lynch, city harbor master, which is soon to be presented to Commissioner of Public Works A. A. Sprague.

48 Bridges in Operation.

The bridge operating section functioned without interruption during the year, says the report. "Forty-eight bridges were operated. Twenty-four bridges daily including the pontoon bridge at Torrence avenue, which was closed in service in December. Three hundred and thirty-nine bridge tenders were employed, which includes forty men used during the summer months on vacation relief work."

In salaries for these bridge tenders, the report shows, the city paid $232,322. Power and light cost $58,400. Fuel, $12,345; supplies, $2,250; and telephone $2,427. All these expenses, save for lighting, would be eliminated if a fixed bridge policy.

Opened 94,685 Times.

The grand total of openings during the year was 94,685. The average time for each opening is estimated at 3 1/2 minutes, making the total time the bridges were useless for traffic 341,297 minutes, or 5,687 hours.

Tables presented in the report show the number of openings, the time of each, and the cost of operation for the bridges on streets in the loop district as follows:

	No. of openings	Minutes	Cost
Michigan	2,206	3.97	$10,340
Madison	3,235	3.77	15,340
Wabash	4,001	3.61	15,407
Dearborn	2,435	3.10	8,855
Wacker	2,658	4.17	15,534
La Salle	2,265	3.19	15,300
Franklin	2,568	3.87	15,453
La Salle	2,986	3.01	15,117
Franklin	2,496	3.00	15,105
La Salle	2,407	3.00	15,406
Franklin	2,435	3.10	15,291
La Salle	1,771	3.11	6,610
Franklin	2,532	3.27	15,216
La Salle	2,030	3.32	15,108

Cost Is Mounting Steadily.

During the last five years, with one exception, the number of bridge openings and the cost of operation has mounted steadily. The variation came in 1924 when the openings fell about 200 below the preceding year. In 1925 the bridges opened 78,229 times; in 1922, 87,309 times; in 1923, 89,959 times; and in 1924, 94,685 times. The corresponding costs of operation were $231,831, $230,710, $237,166, $225,156, and $201,100.

Use of Pier May Help.

Although the bridge evil, as the towns show, has grown worse year by year as commerce on the river increased, there is a possibility of an improvement to a degree at least this year in the concentration of lake passenger vessel headquarters at the Municipal pier.

Practically all of the excursion boats which formerly docked at upstream piers now use the pier, according to the harbor officials. But the opening of bridges for sand scows, tug boats, dredges and commercial craft of all kinds, they asserted, will continue until the city adopts a permanent fixed bridge policy.

CHICAGO WIFE OF MILLIONAIRE DIES IN MYSTERY

Eugene M. Elliott in Florida Jail.

St. Petersburg, Fla., June 27.—(AP)—Eugene M. Elliott, millionaire Florida realty developer, today was removed from the city jail here to the county jail at Clearwater, where he is being held pending completion of an inquest into the death of his wife, Mrs. Elsie Forster Elliott, last night. No charge has been preferred against him, authorities saying he was held as a material witness. Mrs. Elliott formerly was Miss Elsie Porter of Chicago.

Madeline, the 16-year-old daughter, was released in custody of the family attorney, but the negro maid and butler are held as witnesses. State's Attorney Pascoe Wilson of Dade City was reported tonight on his way here to conduct an investigation. Mrs. Elliott died at a hospital here late last night, several hours after she was brought there by Elliott, accompanied by his daughter. Hospital authorities said her skull had been fractured.

Investigation disclosed that on Saturday Mrs. Elliott had instituted divorce proceedings against her husband. Evidence brought out by the coroner's preliminary investigation Saturday night was that Mrs. Elliott had started to enter the home when she fell backwards, striking her head on the concrete walk. The investigation was then postponed until tomorrow.

Elliott came to St. Petersburg in 1922 from Atlantic City. He is a native of Topeka, Kans., and was widely known as a college football player and amateur boxer. Elliott was associated with national committees in the Roosevelt, Hughes and Harding campaigns. His bank account was attached in April, 1925, by federal agents who charged failure to pay $500,000 alleged to be due.

Dedicate Home

Dedication ceremonies were held yesterday at the Katharine Doddridge Kreigh Budd memorial home for children, a mile north of Libertyville. The home has been established by Britton I. Budd, president of the North Shore railroad, as a memorial to his late wife, who had for years before her death hoped to found such a refuge for children.

Fifteen summer cottages and temporary buildings have been completed and several more cottages will be erected. Officiating at the services was the Rt. Rev. Sheldon M. Griswold, suffragan bishop of Chicago, who was assisted by the Rt. Rev. Benjamin P. Ivins, coadjutor bishop of Milwaukee, and other clergy. Music was furnished by the parish choir of the Church of the Atonement.

Tributes to the life and work of the late Mrs. Budd were given by Bernard J. Fallon, one of the trustees of the memorial, and by the Rev. Frederic S. Fleming, rector of the Church of the Atonement.

JAIL IS REWARD OF YOUTHS WHO SAVE TWO GIRLS

At the request of two girls they had rescued from an attempted attack by an intoxicated man, two south side youths spent last night in the Grand Crossing jail.

Anna and Joyce Raschke, 16 and 18 years old, of 7223 Eberhart avenue, were halted at 77th street and Ingleside avenue by John Kirby, 7643 Dobson avenue. He made improper proposals and tried to seize them. Their screams attracted John Pasgal, 7543 Dorchester avenue, and Michael Reardon, 7433 Dante avenue.

They gave Kirby a severe beating. Then they called the police. Kirby, severely injured, was taken to the Bridewell hospital and the other four went to the Grand Crossing station, where a complaint was signed. Outside, Reardon told the girls that he and his friend didn't want to appear as witnesses and had given false names to the police. So the Raschke girls screamed again, the police came, and the rescuers were detained as witnesses.

Police Fire at 3 in Stolen Auto; Wreck; 1 Is Caught

A detective bureau squad fired a dozen shots at a stolen automobile in which three men speeded through South Western avenue at sixty miles an hour last night. At 47th street a wheel ran off the machine and it was wrecked. Two of the trio escaped. The other, John Cherry of 2001 West 21st place, asserted that he had only been invited to ride with the men who escaped. The car was stolen in Cicero.

GRILL SIX, BUT FIND NO CLEWS IN POLICE KILLING

Gang Theory in the Daley Murder Collapses.

Six employees of the Chicago Surface lines, for five of whom Policeman Patrick Daley was carrying warrants when he was killed early yesterday morning on the street near his home at 910 North Springfield avenue, were questioned yesterday at the Austin police station.

All but two were released, however, when they convinced investigators that they were in a restaurant at the time of the killing. Philip Strum, 4912 Melrose street, and Paul Granow, 4201 Kammerling avenue, were held on a charge previously placed against them.

Admit No Clues Found.

With the collapse of the theory that these men were responsible for the death, it was admitted that the police were baffled by the mystery of the identity of the killers. Daley was shot through the heart and fell, dying, on the lawn of the Bethlehem Lutheran church, Iowa street and Springfield avenue. No witnesses have been found who saw the shooting.

Ray Noel and Dennis Sherlock, living at 902 North Springfield avenue, said they heard someone fumbling about their front door shortly before shots were exchanged by Daley and his assailant. The policeman may have attempted to arrest a burglar, it is believed, and met his death when the other fired.

Find Warrants Near Body.

Clarence Hand, owner of an ice cream parlor at 2952 West North avenue, directed attention to the possibility of the killing having been accomplished by the street car men. He said he had been beaten up by the six men and that warrants he swore to have been given Daley to serve. He arrested Joseph Kowalski, one of the six, and investigators learned he had threatened to get the policeman for this.

Four of the warrants were found a few feet from the spot where Daley

Toy Gun Sets Gary Fireworks Store Ablaze; Loss $260,000

A toy machine gun in the hands of a small boy yesterday caused a fire loss of about $260,000 at the "Tribe of K" store in Gary, Ind., a large concern handling office supplies, photographic goods, candy, fireworks, stationery, and similar stocks.

Four or five boys, intent on obtaining an early supply of fireworks for the Fourth of July celebration, were wandering about the basement just at noon, making selections from the $5,000 stock on display there. One of them was snapping a toy machine gun. Sparks from the gun flew into a box of fireworks.

Almost instantly the blaze spread. Roman candles, pinwheels, skyrocket, noise makers, and fireworks of all descriptions were burning and popping and flashing in one mad bombardment.

Girl Clerk Trapped, Burned.

Miss Julia Anderson of the candy department had gone to the basement to replenish her stock. She was cut off from the stairway by the fire. A back door which she managed to reach was locked on the outside.

William Joder, a clerk working on the floor above, heard her screams and rushed to the door, unlocking it for her. She was burned and her hair badly singed, but her condition is not serious.

Albert Ralph, bailiff in the Superior court, was inspecting some toy balloons, snatched up two of the burning boxes in an endeavor to prevent the spread of the fire, throwing them away from the rest of the stock. He was burned about the hands.

Victor Druer, clerk in charge of the fireworks, snatched up two of the burning boxes in an endeavor to prevent the spread of the fire, throwing them away from the rest of the stock. He was burned about the hands.

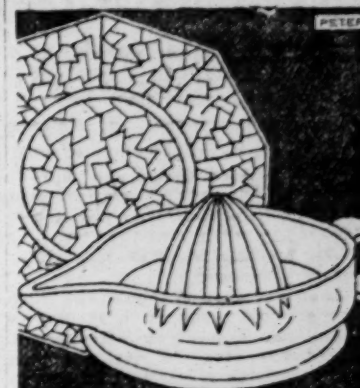

Smoke Hampers Firemen.

Five fire companies were called out by Joder, who dashed around the corner to the nearest fire alarm box to give the alarm. Because of the dense smoke and the length of the building, 125 feet, firemen were hampered in directing their streams of water.

The "Tribe of K" store is operated by Frank Kleinschmidt and his son, Harry. They carried about $120,000 insurance on their stock, which was damaged to the extent of $200,000, they said. The remainder of the damage was to the building, which they were preparing to vacate next month.

Street car traffic was halted by the fire for about three hours. Mayor F. E. Williams and Harold Sandbach, president of the Gary safety council, assisted in passing out coffee to the firemen.

The boys have not been identified.

Summer salad or dessert plates are offered in the popular crackle glass—cool green or delicate peach tones—the dozen, now, $12.00.

For summer beverages every hostess will want this "juicer" green or peach, each, 50c.

"Brocade," a beautiful Titan ware, introduces a cheerful note in summer services. French blue flowers on rich ivory and banded by Empire yellow. Dinner plates, the dozen, now, $14.00. Teacups and saucers, the dozen, $14.00. 25-piece Tea Sets, each, $22.50.

100 LOSE LIVES AS FLOODS SWEEP OVER ROUMANIA

Quakes Rock Wide Area
of Europe and Egypt.

The Helwan government observatory's seismograph was put out of action after the first minute of the quake.

It was a terrifying experience, even for those outdoors, for the ground swayed like the deck of a ship, while ceilings and balconies of houses collapsed. A number of houses in the native quarters of Cairo, Benha, el-Asal, and Alexandria were destroyed.

New German Floods.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
BERLIN, June 27.—Spreewald, a picturesque district about two hours' ride from Berlin, known as the "northern Venice" because the channels of the rivers take the place of streets and squares in the main centers, is the victim of a flood. In Lubben, its capital, men, women, and children are beseeching the headquarters of the farmers' league and government officers for help.

A second center of flood disaster is Schwedt, on the river Oder, a charming town, famed for its graceful eighteenth century castle gardens. Despite frantic efforts of troops, firemen, and volunteers, the dam has burst and the river is sweeping away crops of potatoes and beets, the district's greatest wealth.

The Rhine and Elbe, which have been rising steadily, reached their maximum this afternoon and are now slowly falling.

ARREST MILLERS; LOST $7,000,000 IN CHICAGO DEALS

BUDAPEST, Hungary, June 27.—(AP)—Charged with responsibility for the loss in speculative adventures in the Chicago wheat market of more than $7,000,000 belonging to the stockholders of the Concordia Milling company, Emil Bacher and Oscar Fabry, president and manager respectively, of those corporations, were arrested last night by the Hungarian state police.

Bacher, it is said, bought and sold huge quantities of wheat last winter on the Chicago market without authorization of the stockholders, which brought about the bankruptcy of the company. To save Hungary's commercial credit abroad the government advanced $3,500,000 to the insolvent concern, but succeeded merely in staying off ultimate total collapse.

Like Bacher, the Concordia's manager, Fabry, is charged with the mismanagement of large sums for speculation on the Chicago exchange. There are tens of thousands of small stockholders in both companies.

SMALL SHIP SKIPS SEA HURRICANES BY RANGE FINDER

Washington, D. C., June 27.—(AP)—Evolution of a hurricane range finding system by use of radio, barometric pressure charts and weather maps aboard the navy cargo ship Kittery has attracted attention of navy navigators to such an extent that early general use of the system by all navigators seems certain.

Several times the little Kittery, working on the Hampton roads-West Indian run, has completely escaped storms which caused great loss of life and did terrific damage to shipping over a wide area, her navigators having spotted the storm path long in advance and either avoided it or put back to port.

The Kittery storm dodging system is possible by observations of plotted lines of equal barometric pressure which eventually bring to light the rate of speed and direction of travel of the hurricane or storm areas which unfailingly are indicated by well defined troughs of low barometric pressures. After determining the direction and speed, navigators can more intelligently decide upon the best course to avoid the center or the dangerous semi-circle of approaching storms.

Shoots at Revelers but Hits Passerby; In Jail

Pushman's Special Selling of Persian Runners

$48 $58 $68 $78

This importation of runners was purchased by us so fortunately that we are able to sell them well below what one must usually pay for rugs of this quality and size. We do not believe they can be duplicated except at 50% more than our prices.

It consists of 74 pieces—Carajas, Irans, Camel's Hairs, Kurdistans and a few Lilahans. The lengths run from 8.4 to 14.9 feet, the widths from 2.9 to 3.9.

Most of them are in their natural state with their beautiful colorings mellowed by age.

Some of the designs and color combinations are striking—others more subdued—ranging from deep, rich shades of red, mulberry, blue and tan to the lighter and more vivid hues. The exceptional wearing quality of these rugs makes them ideal for halls, stairways, in front of couches—in fact, for any spots that get hard wear.

The importation has been divided into four groups, as follows:

Group A

20 rugs—your choice

Group B

24 rugs—your choice
$68

Group C

15 rugs—your choice
$58

Group D

Persian Mosuls - - $44

This is a particularly interesting group of some 35 pieces, the balance of a recent importation made at a very advantageous price. The sizes range from 3 to 3.6 ft. wide by 6 to 6.9 ft. long, in a splendid variety of Persian designs and colorings.

We do not believe these values can be duplicated for less than $65 to $75.

Belouchistans - - $27

Usually one must pay in the neighborhood of $40 for rugs of this quality and size. Because of their fine, "silky" appearance and dark, rich colors, Belouchistans are the most popular of all the moderately priced Oriental Rugs. This group consists of 25 pieces—all selected qualities which we are glad to recommend to you.

TRI-CITIES VISIT GIVES ROYAL PAIR DAY OF PLEASURE

College and Crowd Recall Swedish Homeland.

BY ORVILLE DWYER.

Rock Island, Ill., June 27.—[Special.]—Through the golden sunshine of the Tri-Cities, in the heart of one of the big old settlements of his countrymen in America, Gustavus Adolphus, crown prince of Sweden, rode today, reviewed by thousands in a truly royal welcome. All along the thirty mile drive through Rock Island, Davenport, and Moline, through pretty Long View park, on the hill here in Rock Island, through Vandeventer park in Davenport, across the murky Mississippi, through the federal arsenal on the island, and back over the river again, the people gathered to wave and cheer and smile at his royal highness and his princess.

Officials of the three cities estimated that at least 30,000 persons gathered along the route of the royal cortege.

Receiving at Station.

The reception at the station in the morning was roiling. Mayors of the three cities—Walter Rosenfield of Rock Island, Louis Roddewig of Davenport, and Claude W. Sandstrom of Moline—were there, and so were President G. A. Brandell of the Augustana synod, President Gustav Andren, president of the Augustana college and theological seminary, and other college officials.

Augustana college is one of the great Swedish institutions of the country.

ROCKEFELLER REPORT TERMS DETROIT VICE WORST IN COUNTRY

Detroit, Mich., June 27.—[Special.]—That vice conditions here are the worst in the country is the substance of a report made following a three months' survey conducted and financed by the Rockefeller foundation.

The figures cited, according to the report, were compiled by a survey of establishments in the section named in the report.

"Detroit ranks as the blackest, vilest city—barring none—in the United States as far as vice is concerned," the report says. "This is not an opinion but the relation of unquestioned facts. The survey discloses astounding facts."

Oscar II, of Sweden, grandfather of the present heir to the crown, in 1903 created the Oscar II. professorship of natural sciences, which has since been maintained by the royal family. Now the college is in a national campaign for an endowment of three million dollars. During his visit the prince presented the college library with the works of Montellus, the Swedish scientist.

Preserve Zeal for Education.

After his ride, the prince and princess visited the college, the real purpose of their visit here. In a speech in the gymnasium, the prince, speaking in Swedish, talked of the Swedish and American zeal for education.

"It is remarkable," he said, "how the Swedish tradition of education has been carried on to this country by its emigrants."

The royal party took a later afternoon train for home, and during the trip the prince conferred on President Gorman of the railroad the degree of Knight I. of the Royal Order of the Northern Star, a royal Swedish order.

WHITING DINNER GUESTS.

Guests at the dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Whiting last evening at their Chicago home in honor of the Crown Prince and Princess, included, besides the members of the Swedish royal party, Mr. and Mrs. John Sargent, Dr. and Mrs. John Timothy Stone, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred McEwen of New York, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Swift, Mr. Herman Waldeck, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert A. Richards, Col. and Mrs. Robert, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Trude, Mrs. J. K. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. James Offield, Mr. and Mrs. William Wrigley, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Dick, Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Filipino Massmeeting
Protests Pending U. S. Bills
MANILA, June 27.—(AP)—A huge massmeeting was held in Manila tonight to protest against the Bacon and Kieas bills, now before the American congress. The first of these measures would provide a separate territorial government for the Moro islands of the Philippine archipelago—Mindanao, Sulu, and Palawan—and the second would increase the powers of the insular auditor and create a contingent fund to be placed at the disposal of the governor general.

For the First Time in the History of Banking—

the "Republic" has consolidated the advantages of the "age-old" Savings Account with the benefits of the "ordinary" Checking Account and has created the new, modern—

Combination Checking-Savings Account (The Savings Account with the Checking Privilege)

Ordinary Savings Account Only 50% Efficient

When you maintain an ordinary Savings Account you receive 3% Compound Interest on your saving, but of course, you are not permitted to draw checks. Therefore, the "age-old" Savings Account is only 50% efficient.

Separate Checking Account Fills But Half the Bill

When you maintain an ordinary Checking Account you are allowed to draw checks, but of course, you do not receive 3% Interest on your surplus. Therefore, the "separate" Checking Account fills only half the bill.

NOW YOU CAN COMBINE BOTH IN ONE ACCOUNT

What is a Checking-Savings Account?

A Checking-Savings Account is a new form of bank account originated and copyrighted by the "Republic." It is a Combination Account against which you may draw checks and at the same time receive 3% Compound Interest on your savings.

Must I Maintain Two Separate Accounts?

No, because through a simple bookkeeping method the bank makes it possible for you to draw checks without disturbing the accumulation of 3% Compound Interest on your surplus funds—the amount over and above the checks you draw.

Must I Come to the Bank to Deposit or Withdraw?

No, you may deposit by mail by simply endorsing your pay checks, etc., to this bank and mailing in the ordinary way—your account will be credited and receipt sent you the same day—or anyone may deposit for you. To withdraw you merely issue checks.

"An Absolute Check on My Expenses"

ONE CUSTOMER SAYS: "An ordinary Savings Account is all right as far as it goes, but it goes only half the distance, whereas my Combination Checking-Savings Account gives me an absolute check on my expenses and the bank automatically saves the difference for me."

"Saves Both Time and Money"

ANOTHER ONE TELLS US: "My Checking-Savings Account saves me both time and money. Where I used to waste an hour making a special trip to the Savings Bank each Saturday night, now I deposit by mail and pay all bills by check at my own desk—7 miles from the 'loop'—and the bank automatically saves my surplus for me."

"Each Canceled Check Serves as a Receipt"

A THIRD EXPLAINS: "The canceled checks which are returned to me by the bank each month serve as indisputable receipts for the bills they paid, for the payee's endorsement is positive proof that he got the money. This gives me an automatic system of receipts which I would not be without."

TO CONVERT YOUR Ordinary SAVINGS ACCOUNT—

into a Combination Checking-Savings Account merely bring your ordinary Savings Bank Book to our Checking-Savings Division (Ground Floor) and we will immediately make the exchange for you and attend to all the details.

CITY LUTHERANS CELEBRATE 150TH BIRTHDAY OF U. S.

Dry Law Assailed.

Celebrating the 150th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence, 35,000 persons, including 5,000 children, yesterday attended patriotic exercises at Soldiers' field. The ceremonies were conducted by the American Lutheran League of the Evangelical Lutheran church.

Community singing of national airs, flag drills, songs by a mixed chorus of 1,500 voices under the direction of J. G. Schmid, and addresses appropriate to the occasion were features of the program.

Rape Eighteenth Amendment.

Discussing the bearing of the Declaration of Independence on contemporary laws in this country, Prof. Martin Graebner of Concordia college, Milwaukee, declared that some statutes, especially the eighteenth amendment to the constitution, are not in keeping with the original spirit of that document.

"The majority of Lutherans believe that the eighteenth amendment is contrary to the spirit of our constitution," Dr. Graebner said. "The constitution was primarily intended to secure liberties, not curtail them. Every amendment has been in harmony with the fundamental principles of the government except this one. The eighteenth amendment alone restricts the liberty of the citizen."

Names Lutheran Patriots.

Numerous Lutherans who have shown outstanding patriotism were named by Paul T. Hussin, superintendent of Lutheran schools of the country, in his address. He mentioned Betsy Ross, who made the first American flag; Gen. J. P. Muhlenberg of Washington's army; Frederick Muhlenberg, president of the convention which ratified the constitution and the first speaker of the house of representatives; Michael Hillegas, first treasurer of the United States, whose picture appears on each $10 treasury note; Molly Pitcher and Elizabeth Zane; and Gen. Herkimer of the revolutionary army.

Greetings were read from Gov. Small and from Mayor Dever.

WAR DEPARTMENT TO AID STUDENTS IN SENIOR YEAR

Washington, D. C., June 27.—(AP)—College or university junior classmen financially unable to conclude their senior year studies may find their way cleared for them by the war department.

The department announced today its plan to finance 100 young men in such circumstances through their senior year beginning next September, as many more will be cared for at the beginning of each scholastic year. Tuition costs will be paid by the army with the understanding that the students enlist for short terms in the army. It is planned that the enlistments shall be for 18 months periods, half time to be served while at college and the remainder in army camps to be opened after graduation for their particular instruction in army supply procurement problems. The students at the end of the nine months' camp work will be allowed to apply for reserve commissions or retire to civilian status without obligation.

TAKE REGULATIONS OUT
OF THE CRIMINAL CODE.Philip La Follette, district attorney of Madison and son of the late senator of Wisconsin, made one of the most important and timely proposals heard at the meeting of the Wisconsin Bar association.
He urged the removal from the criminal statutes of "those offenses defined as criminal, but which in reality are merely social regulations arising out of complex living."Unquestionably this overloading of our criminal statutes with offenses that are not in any serious sense criminal, or are not what the law calls malum in se or morally evil in themselves, is one of the reasons for the shortcomings of our administration of the criminal law. It not only diverts energy that ought to be concentrated on serious crime, but by giving to a minor infraction of the law a character it does not possess, by making it more heinous to the law than it is to the conscience, all respect for law is weakened. It is demoralizing to classify as criminal the breach of a regulation of convenience. There is bad policy in making a criminal of every speeder, as Mr.
La Follette says, and in classifying a farmer who ships his chickens in an illegal crate with a run-ting gangster, or the boy who catches a frog in his neighbor's yard, with a pickpocket.We are breaking down the efficiency of law enforcement and confounding the public conscience by yielding to the lawmaking passions and to the censoring ardor of reformers, amateur and professional. But if we are to have as many verbotens as the Kaiser's Prussia, let us at least discriminate between a regulation and laws against real crimes.
Remove regulatory enactments from the criminal code, and, as Mr. La Follette wisely urges, "save the intricate, technical machinery of the criminal law for the crimes for which it was devised—murder, robbery, rape, and similar felonies."To make this necessary clarification will be difficult because the zeal of the reformer is ardent and his horizon narrow. But the legal profession is or should be aware of the evil and its part in the shaping of our laws is predominating. In all our legislatures and in congress lawyers are leaders and they ought, as a matter of professional intelligence, to resist the tendency to confuse the distinction between breaches of regulations or offenses merely malum prohibitum and serious crimes.

GEN. ANDREWS IN DANGER.

Gen. Andrews is going to get in bad with all real prohibitionists when he asks them "to realize that we want to be reasonable in these matters." The trouble with that theory is that the 18th amendment is not reasonable, the Volstead act is not reasonable, the myriad state statutes of prohibition enforcement are not reasonable. The spirit of prohibition is not reasonable. It glows with zeal for the regeneration of our neighbors according to its own conception of right living, but it isn't going to balk at any objection of reason if it collides with that passion. Any one who counsels sweet reasonableness in "these matters" is suspect, if not worse. There are no such things as "little matters" in prohibition and where Gen. Andrews confesses to a wish that "people quit making so much disturbance" about them, he is in danger of the council and of hell fire.

A GOOD BALL GAME.

It was a good ball game, that championship game last Friday afternoon, when the team of Beverly Chids High school of New York beat Lane Technical High school of Chicago, 10 to 2, for the intercity title and the W. W. Cohen trophy.
One of the things that impressed us most was the collegiate atmosphere that pervaded the atmosphere, from the solemn flag raising to the jubilant finish. The display of sportsmanship by players and onlookers, the organized cheering led by uniformed acrobats, the Lane Tech band—a mighty good band—and the excellent brand of ball played by both teams—mentioning especially the notable pitching of Nikola of New York—were all not high school but collegiate. School athletics certainly tends to raise the sportsmanship of the coming generation to an ever higher level. We believe it even tends to improve scholarship. Healthy boys and girls—healthy not only in body but in mind as well, as athletics tends to make them—make the best students. There are exceptions, but it is the average that counts in turning out young men and women who will become the citizens of tomorrow.It is a notable annual event, this bringing together in sportsmanlike competition of boys from the east and from the west. Last Friday's game was a broadening experience for the boys on the diamond and for the 18,000 youthful and adult fans who packed the stands. It has been the glamour of THE TRIBUNE to underwrite the expenses of the game. This year's game more than paid for itself and the money will be held in trust by THE TRIBUNE to promote next year's game. The success was made possible by the cooperation and generosity of many people—William Wrigley and William Veck, who loaned the Cubs' park, Ben Johnson, who loaned a regular American league umpire, and others, and by the efforts of Director Delaporte of the schools' department of physical education, by the cooperation of the teachers inthe public schools, and, of course, by the loyal support of all Chicago school children. All these must be thanked for the success of a notable event.

GRANT BEGINS HIS MARCH.

In yesterday's "Sixty-five Years Ago" there was this record: "Springfield—Col. U. S. Grant has obtained permission to march his command when he moves from Camp Yates to Quincy. The health of the men at Camp Yates is not good, owing to the water, the well for the supply of which lies near or over a coal seam."That march was a memorable one in American history. It was the beginning of Grant's march to Fort Donelson, Vicksburg, into Virginia, to Appomattox, and the presidency. Grant had been drifting. In June, 1861, he was visiting his father at Covington, Ky., and twice tried to see McClellan across the river at Cincinnati, hoping to get a position on his staff. The general was not at his headquarters either time, but in his autobiography he says that if he had seen Grant he would have given him a place. McClellan's afterthought was that this would have been Grant's ruin. He might have been involved in McClellan's own downfall.
Grant came back to Illinois. Gov. Yates, at Springfield, did not know what to do with the Twenty-first infantry, Illinois volunteers. It had been organized at Mattoon and had come to Camp Yates at Springfield in a turbulent, half-mutinous condition, quarrelling over the selection of a colonel.
Grant was suggested for the command, and the governor decided to give it to him, with the idea that if the regiment broke the colonel it wouldn't be the waste of a good soldier.Grant took command in the presence of Yates.
The colonel was not informed. He had a stick for a sword and he failed to get the men into line.
Yates went home discouraged, thinking he had made another blundering appointment. Grant was still struggling with his regiment when Fremont ordered the regiment transferred to Quincy for service against bushwhackers in northern Missouri. A railroad agent was sent to Camp Yates to ask the colonel what equipment he would require. Grant said he did not want any and did not explain why.
The agent reported the eccentricity or insult or stupidity, whatever it was, to the adjutant general, who called the colonel to the carpet. Grant began his explanation by asking if his objective were not northern Missouri, and if there were a railroad in northern Missouri. The answer to the one was yes and to the other no."As there was no railroad in northern Missouri and as I cannot wait to have one built," said the colonel, "it is very clear that I shall have to march. Now, as it is generally understood that my regiment is in bad discipline, and as I have ten days' time, I have made up my mind that I will begin work in earnest, right at once, by marching my men from here to Quincy. That was the reason for my answer. I don't want any railroad cars, but I do want equipments for a march."The Twenty-first was the first regiment which left Springfield on foot. It made five miles the first day. Grant's orders were that it should march at six the next morning. Many of the men were asleep at that hour and Grant could not get them up until seven. The orders were for six the second morning, with the warning that it would be six whether the regiment was ready or not.The march started at six, but some of the men did not even have their shoes on. They were put into the ranks barefooted and were not allowed even to carry their shoes. They were marched in this fashion three miles, and then Grant sent back for their footwear. The third morning the regiment was ready to start at the six o'clock drum.That particular march was not completed. Beyond the Illinois river there was a change of orders, giving a change of destination and an urgent call for the regiment, which then required the railroad. Grant had handled his first job and his march had begun.THE GEORGIA CRACKERJACK.First came Jess Sweetser, winning the British amateur golf championship. And now Bobby Jones takes the British open, and right behind him three other American players, Watrous, Hagen, and Von Elm. The pupils have gone back and beaten their teachers with a vengeance.
Holder of the American amateur title and the British open, Bobby Jones of Atlanta stands out at last as the world's greatest golfer, the title which experts of goldmine have claimed for him during his many years' struggle to the top. They have said all along that he was born to be the greatest golfer that ever swung a driver or holed a putt. He has proved they were right. It has been an uphill struggle for Bobby Jones, for he fought a precocious temper as well as the hazards of the game. We said a few days ago when he shot a 66 during a qualifying round that a victory in the tournament would be a double victory for Bobby Jones. He came through and won. All honor to him as a golfer and a man.

The Other Side

LAKE LEVEL SANITY.

[Grand Rapids (Mich.) Press]

The state of Michigan is now engaged in a Supreme court fight not merely to reduce the diversion at Chicago to the slightly more than 4,000 feet determined by the secretary of war to be proper, but to nothing at all. It has been exceedingly difficult for the Press to see the value of this intense demand in court.
Decidedly the state has no intention of forcing Chicago at once to turn its uncared for sewage into Lake Michigan. And just as decidedly we are not concerned with small diversions which do not affect the level of the lakes. On the other hand, we are most intimately concerned with the transportation possibilities which would be opened by a Mississippi barge waterway to the Gulf of Mexico. This barge canal does not require the 10,000 feet of water which Chicago seeks for it in order to create its sewage disposal responsibilities. A sane legislative program for the lake states would appear to be the thwarting of Chicago without thwarting the barge project, too.
By compromise and legislative pressure it should be possible for lake state senators and congressmen to effect a compromise by which the Mississippi valley would obtain enough water for the barge way, but not enough to play Chicago's sewage disposal game and harm navigation on the lakes.Is the suit worth the candle? Suppose the Supreme court does rule that Chicago can't have anything? Have we any actual intention of cutting its withdrawal to zero? Shouldn't we be cutting off the case to spite our faces if we refused a safe amount of water, not affecting lake levels, to maintain reasonable Mississippi barge way? Suppose the United States and Canada later determine upon construction of engineering works by which all the diversions may be offset? How will our extremism, our punctiliousness about the satisfaction of purely legal but by no means practical rights to every pip of lake water appear to us then?

HAY FEVER AND WEEDS.

There is no pollen of importance as a cause of autumnal hay fever which comes from any plant that is of any value economically. Farmers and gardeners would be much better off were there none of these plants. They are all weeds. Stock will not eat them.
Weed cutting ordinances, properly enforced, would work no hardship on any one. The only drawback is the cost of weed cutting. The various departments of agriculture contend that it pays farmers and gardeners to keep the weeds down because of the harm they do crops and the expense they cause those who till the soil. The farm experts say weeds on ditch banks and turnpikes and along highways add to the cost of farming on nearby fields.In towns and cities, weed covered lots accumulate rubbish and breed insects.
They are a source of annoyance and detract from the value of nearby property.
If the hay fever sufferers and their friends will exert themselves to have weed laws passed and enforced, they will be the real supporters of the farm experts and the people who work for clean, well kept towns.By working for the suppression of weeds, they help to make life endurable in August, September, and October.USED SOAP AND WATER.
J. S. writes that he had an obstinate itching patch on the back of his neck.
There was no rash or redness. Just itching.
He cured it by washing the area with a good soap and water several times a week.TOO MUCH SUNLIGHT.
Miss R. S. writes: Is it possible to get too much sunlight for the good of the eyes? I am a stock photographer and work right alongside a south window which throws a good deal of light. I am careful to avoid the sunlight. Do you think such a light would be detrimental to the eyesight? Many people tell me I work in a glare.REPLY.
Too much sunlight is quite harmful. It causes nervousness and sometimes still other troubles.
In your case the trouble is with glare. Glare is harmful to the eyes.The hay fever which comes in August, September, and October is another matter. That is due to pollens from weeds.

FAULTY CONSTRUCTION.

Chicago, June 24.—(To the Legal Friend

I attribute this to cheap construction of get judgment against the contractor?

CHIVALROUS MEN.

Chicago, June 23.—From the articles
I have read in the daily newspapers the general trend of thought seems to be that the largest percentage of both sexes are "rotten." I maintain that people who say such things are radically wrong.
The largest percentage of both sexes are decent, clean minded people. The men of today are just as chivalrous as the men of the Middle Ages. They are just as womankind as they always have been. Just because a few young fellows are not well bred enough to control themselves the whole race of mankind is called unchivalrous and termed "morons."In the different articles advice is freely given to the girls to stay away from the men and wear more clothes. Why should they? The girls, some of them, are freedom of dress as we men have. Just because the girls wear short, comfortable skirts is no reason for the few ill bred men to have their minds in the "rotten." The girls, some of them, are just as some of the men, but not all of them by any means.I think any person that pans the jury in the De Kalb case should get thirteen years, too. The jury was fine. I think, though, that the judge should have given them a life term.

A CHIVALROUS YOUNG MAN.

PROVOCATION AND THE OFFENSE.
Chicago, June 23.—Apparently the great majority of those who have undertaken to discuss the recent De Kalb case have been under too much emotional strain to indulge in serious thought. It is surely evident that the argument for leniency based on "provocation" is low grade sophistry. It seems rather unreasonable to claim that, by the act of petting a nurse, a man is provoked into a crime.
They are to be locked up behind bars for the hands of the men she pets. There ought to be some relation between the "provocation" and the offense it warrants. In Chicago women who wear jewelry on the service are called with monotonous regularity; the cause of the robbery is the display of jewels, but, as yet, to my knowledge no lawyer has offered as a defense that his client was "provoked" by the display.The only conclusion that I can draw from the flood of letters from women who think the poor boys have been too severely treated is that these women have come to place a very low value on the possession of that which was once called

HOLD CORN BELT LINES AGAINST FESS FARM BILL

Coolidge Leaders Fight
Hard for Votes.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., June 27.—(Special.)—A mighty struggle over farm legislation, involving also momentous political considerations pertaining to the congressional elections this year and the presidential election of 1928, is in progress tonight. Administration leaders are striving by persuasion and offers of compromise to win sufficient votes in the senate to pass the administration solution of the agricultural problem represented by the Fess bill in the senate and the Tischer bill in the house. They are confident that if they succeed the resultant Republican revolt in the mid-west will be allayed and that President Coolidge will recover any loss of popularity due to his opposition to the Tischer bill to enhance the prices of farm products on the American market.

Only Cloud on Horizon.
As matters now stand, the only cloud perceived on the horizon by those deeply interested in the renomination of Mr. Coolidge in 1928 is the disaffection in the Republican agricultural circles of the west.

The American Farm Bureau Federation and corn belt lobby here, headed by George N. Peek of Illinois, is working tooth and nail to beat the Fess bill and any other substitute for the Tischer price raising measure defeated previously in the house. Unable to get the legislation they want, they are refusing to compromise, preferring to let the legislation pass as ineffectual, and are planning to carry their cause to the people in the November election of the next congress and in the election of a President in 1928.

Slamming back at Peek and the farm bureau, administration leaders are accusing them of adopting a rule or veto policy in the interest of the nomination of former Governor Lowden or Vice President Dawes for Republican nomination in 1928.

By refusing to accept any farm bill legislation now the corn belt leaders, according to the administration viewpoint, are saving an issue on which to build opposition to the renomination of the President.

Call Attention to Lineups.
Attention is called by Coolidge partisans to the close relations existing between Mr. Lowden and the farm bureau federation, and between Mr. Peek and Vice President Dawes and the corn belt lobby's frequent use of statements uttering threats ranging from revolt against the renomination of Mr. Coolidge to the formation of a third party.

The Democratic chieftains are endeavoring to hold the senate minority in line against the Fess bill, the passage of which would enhance the prestige of the President and tend to remove Republican embarrassment in the agricultural regions.

The administration senators were making compromise overtures to the corn belt tonight, but apparently had made little progress. Senator Watson (Rep., Ind.), assistant majority leader of the senate, and Senator McNary (Rep., Ore.), after a conference with other supporters of the Tischer plan, returned the answer that nothing short of the principles of that measure, including surplus control and the equalization fee, could be accepted. Their count of noses showed that 15 Republican senators would vote against the Fess bill and that only six Democrats would vote for it, which would mean defeat of the administration measure.

$5,000,000 BANK SCANDAL JAILS FASCIST CHIEFS

ROME, June 27.—(AP)—Secretary General Turati of the Fascist party has uncovered a huge banking scandal involving a score of persons high in the party councils under the regime of Benito Mussolini, whom Sig. Turati succeeded as secretary general. Twelve men, all prominent in political, financial and business life, have been arrested in Parma, Florence, Genoa, Piacenza, and Cremona.

The far-reaching significance of the scandal, which concerns primarily the alleged corrupt handling of the affairs of the recently defunct Agricultural bank of Parma, is indicated by the fact that one of those arrested is Gianbattista Biaggi, Swiss consul general at Genoa. Others under arrest are Count Luigi Lusignani, former president of the bank, who, the police assert, attempted to commit suicide when taken into custody; Prof. Alessandro Gropoli of the University of Parma, and Prof. Calvi and Ghibellini.

Held Deposits of $5,000,000.

Ugly rumors concerning the bank, which had deposits of $5,000,000 and 20 flourishing branches, culminated in the closing of its doors on June 15, after which Sig. Turati began an investigation. On the submission of his findings to Sig. Mussolini, the premier ordered immediate action.

The specific charges against the men under arrest have not been made public, but the immense political importance of the case is pointed out by the semi-official Popolo di Roma, which says that Parma is overjoyed and placated with posters reading:

"The duce's word will prevail."

"Gentlemen in fascism, thieves in jail."

Part of "Housecleaning."

Although this is the most sensational, it is not the first step that Sig. Turati has taken to clear up by drastic methods "the difficult local situations" left over, as he puts it, by the Fascist regime.

SPAIN HOLDS 200 FOR PLOT TO END DICTATOR'S RULE

Madrid Is Scoured for Other Leaders.

MADRID (Via Courier to Spanish Frontier), June 26 (Delayed).—Despite the government's attempts to prevent publicity being given to the conspiracy to overthrow the Spanish dictatorship, headed by Gen. Primo de Rivera, the sudden flare of rebellion is the chief topic of conversation here. As far as can be ascertained, the popular sympathy is in favor of the conspirators. It was learned today that more than 200 of the leaders of the revolt are under arrest.

The secret police are scouring Madrid for other plotters. Minister of the Interior Martinez, who became noted for his iron rule in Catalonia in 1923 when he put into effect a grim order that two rebels should pay with their lives for every loyalist killed by the Separatists, is in charge of the investigation.

The greatest secrecy surrounds the recent revolutionary manifesto which called for the suppression of the dictatorship and the assembling of the Cortes. A copy fell into the hands of the police and precipitated a lightning roundup of the conspirators. Those who have seen the document, however, report that it is a carefully phrased and damaging diatribe against the dictatorship, and evidently was written by well informed persons.

Reports seeping through from Tarazona, Cadiz, and other provinces, despite the cast iron censorship, say everything was prepared there for a military uprising. Communications with Barcelona and Valencia, which were cut by orders of the government when the plot was discovered, are being restored, but are still under the most strict censorship.

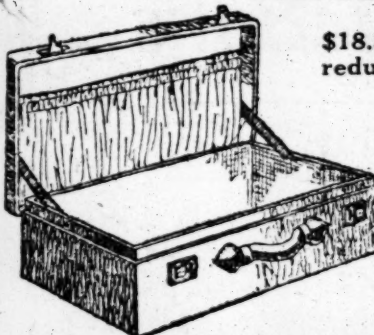

Contrary to the indications yesterday that Gen. Aguilera and Col. Segunda Garcia were caught, the rebel pair seem to have succeeded in leaving Madrid and have headed for one of the alleged insurgent provinces.

A group of the most powerful generals, who opposed Gen. Primo de Rivera in the recent trouble between the dictatorship and the army junta, are now in Madrid. Among them are Gen. Cavalcanti Berenhuer and Rear Admiral Antonio Magaz y Pera, who is ambassador to the Vatican. All are here presumably on private business and although they are not implicated in the plot thus far, their presence, it is believed, would have been fraught with significance, especially if the conspiracy had succeeded.

CAILLAUX ASKS U. S. LOAN PRICE OF DEBT ACCORD

Mellon Is Said to Favor
$300,000,000 Flotation

BY HENRY WALES.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

PARIS, June 27.—American gold obtained in the form of enormous credits from the United States is to be used to stabilize the French franc, according to the plans of Joseph Caillaux, new minister of finance. M. Caillaux intends to send a new committee, headed by Maurice Bokanowski, former chairman of the chamber of deputies' finance commission in the Poincaré régime, to Washington to negotiate this loan without delay.

The finance minister intends to make these credits the price of ratifying the Berenger-Mellon debt funding accord. Similar negotiations will be opened with London for credits of sterling, preliminary to parliament's adoption of the British debt settlement.

Caillaux in Conference.

While other cabinet ministers were resting up after the government crisis or were attending the grand prix, M. Caillaux was hard at work at the Louvre ministry today. He had a long conversation with M. Bokanowski preparatory to the drafting of the official statement which he will make today before the chamber of deputies.

THE TRIBUNE is informed that M. Caillaux considers the Berenger agreement the cornerstone of his stabilization scheme to save the franc. While personally opposing the terms M. Berenger signed at Washington, M. Caillaux is willing to accept the accord and ratification through next autumn, if the United States consents to grant the credits. The sums envisaged range between $200,000,000 and $300,000,000. THE TRIBUNE is informed.

Puts Up Nation's Gold.

The national gold reserve of $500,000,000 francs ($700,000,000) in the strong box of the Bank of France will be pledged to guarantee the American advances, with stipulations providing that the bullion will not be demanded to be transferred outside of France, however.

THE TRIBUNE is informed that M. Caillaux is already assured that President Coolidge and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon consider favorably France's request for credits, but that the finance minister needs to apply formally for financial aid immediately. It is reported that the Washington administration broadly intimated its willingness to recommend to American banking interests to float a loan for France to save the franc as soon as the parliament here has ratified the Berenger agreement. But M. Caillaux wants credits first and ratification afterward, which is where the hitch comes.

Serbia's Highest Military Honors to U. S. Sergeant

Serbia's highest military honors were conferred yesterday on Sgt. Kake Alex, who served in the American army during the world war and won a congressional medal of honor, at a meeting held in Wicker Park hall last night. Dr. B. Burich, consul of the Serbian government in Chicago, presented the sergeant with the foreign recognition of his valor. Four thousand persons attended the meeting, banquet, and ball.

CHICAGO LINKED BY SUPERPOWER LINE WITH EAST

A superpower electric line will connect up Chicago today with Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Toledo, and parts of Indiana, Ohio, Virginia, Kentucky, West Virginia, and Pennsylvania. Under the interconnecting system all of the power resources of all other communities will be available in emergencies for any one other spot. The connections insure a continuity of service which would not be possible under any other plan at a reasonable rate.

For the most part the hook-up transmission line is of 132,000 volts. For a comparison by the uninformed reader, it may be recited that most of the country lines connecting cities are 33,000 and 66,000 volts. Few, if any, lines in Chicago carry more than 66,000 volts, where the largest steam plant system in the world is operated.

Last Gap Bridged.
The last gap in the far flung superpower line, between Michigan City and South Bend, has been bridged and power will be turned on today. This connects Chicago with the east by a steel tower line, most of which will be operated at 132,000 volts. These steel towers, 75 to 100 feet in height, are built on a private right of way 150 feet wide.

Starting in the Calumet region within the state, the generating station of the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois at Joliet and the Calumet station of the Commonwealth Edison company at 106th street on the Calumet river, are connected with the high power line of the Northern Indiana Public Service company at the Illinois-Indiana state line. This northern Indiana corporation is the largest operating subsidiary of the Midland Utilities company.

Connections in Indiana.
On the route of the high power line is the Aetna generating station, just east of Gary. This is a superpower substation of 55,000 horsepower which serves as a distributing center for the Northern Indiana Public Service company. The line runs northeast around the lake to Michigan City, where the Insull interests will later build another superpower station.

Find No Clew to Slayers of Young Girl on Street

Lafayette, Ind., June 27.—[Special.]—Police here are still without a clew to the slayer of 13 year old Rosie Maglio, shot and instantly killed on her way home last night. Her 5 year old sister, who was with her, said she saw no one fire the shot.

HUNGARY GIVES U.S. LEAGUE CHIEF FOND FAREWELL

BY ENID WILKIE.

(Copyright, 1926, By The Chicago Tribune.)

BUDAPEST, June 27.—Hungary is giving a remarkable farewell to Capt. Jeremiah Smith of Boston, retiring commissioner general for the league of nations. A farewell dinner was given him last night, with many notables of the Hungarian government and the diplomatic corps in attendance. He was praised as a hard worker, firm-minded and appreciative of Hungary's difficult position.

The United States minister, Judge Brentano, read a cable from the secretary of state at the banquet, expressing America's satisfaction over Capt. Smith's conclusion of his term of office. America, he said, is glad that one of its citizens was able to give important aid to Hungary.

Count Bethlen said Hungary has every reason to be satisfied. In the beginning, most people were violently opposed to league control. It was difficult to persuade them to accept, but when Capt. Smith came, people said that the much dreaded commissioner did not interfere with their affairs and the opinion of the country changed. Many Hungarians are not sure that it is a good thing to let Capt. Smith go. Count Bethlen made a long speech, expressing Hungary's sorrow over Capt. Smith's departure. The commissioner general was applauded when he said he was only an assistant and could not claim credit for the progress which is due to the cooperation of the Hungarian people. He praised the work of the Hungarian bank in stabilizing the currency and the sacrifices of the people in making the equilibrium of state finances possible.

The Greater Chicago Title Service for Greater Chicago

The CHICAGO TITLE & TRUST COMPANY announces an extension of its title insurance service to cover the three adjoining counties: namely, Lake County and DuPage County, Illinois; and Lake County, Indiana.

This new and greater service of the CHICAGO TITLE & TRUST COMPANY has been brought about by special arrangement with the local abstract companies:

LAKE COUNTY TITLE & TRUST COMPANY

Waukegan, Illinois

DUPAGE TITLE COMPANY

Wheaton, Illinois

ALLMAN-GARY TITLE COMPANY

Gary and Crown Point, Indiana

Abstract methods uniform with those of the Chicago company prevail in each of these organizations. On such abstracts the Chicago company will prepare an opinion of title and issue insurance on the same basis as on its own Cook County abstracts.

Chicago rates for such title insurance and for trust and escrow service will be in force throughout except that on property outside Cook County, the fee of the local abstract company must be added to the insurance premium.

This expansion—made essential by the growing industrial and suburban areas of the metropolitan district—places at the disposal of real estate owners in adjacent counties the proved value of title guarantees by the largest company in the west—one which in less than twenty-five years has written over one million policies!

THE printed silk is everywhere in fashion this summer. Soft-toned or vivid—it is in evening frocks, in sports outfits, in negligees. So that here is a style occasion as well as a sales event.

THE source of these silks is again stressed. They were purchased from a manufacturer known not only for the high quality of his silks but for the originality of their design.

Included: Printed Radium Silks, Crepes, Silk Voiles, Twilled Silks and Smartly Patterned Crepes for Sports Apparel
(Widths Are 36 and 40 Inches According to Kind)

Vivid Crepes and Pastel Chiffons Used with Exquisite Taste in Summer Negligees

GREAT sprays of brilliant flowers against a clear white chiffon, posed over black—that's one negligee. Coral tintings and jade green, in another. Blue tones touched with rose, or orchid colorings with gray create lovely harmonies.

Variety is too great to detail in color and design whose beauty can only be fully appreciated by actually seeing the negligees.

Prices Are Notably Low at $9.75 and $17.75

There is a simplicity of line which achieves uncommon grace in these negligees. Those at $9.75 are silk crepe. Those at $17.75 are of printed chiffon with silk crepe linings, which emerge as bandings down the front and on the sleeves.

CUBS BEATEN BY CARDINALS, 3-2; THEN WIN, 5 TOO

Old Mates Held to 4
Hits by Alex.

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

St. Louis, Mo., June 27.—By far the largest crowd that ever saw a game of ball in St. Louis today watched Grover Cleveland Alexander reap revenge for having been sold down the river. Alex, on the slab for the first time as a St. Louis player, beat the Cubs, his former teammates, 3 to 2 in the first game of a double header.

The Cubs won the second, 5 to 0, but almost lost it by forfeit when in the ninth inning the crowd showed the field with thousands of pop bottles. The umpire started when Charlie Moran ruled that Sparks Adams was safe at first base after the entire throng had seen him pop up to Rogers Hornsby. Moran declared him safe because the catcher had interfered with Sparks as he started to run.

Of course, the crowd didn't see the interference and immediately the umpire and the pop bottles started flying. Fortunately no one was hit, but the show was so heavy that ball players either took refuge out in the middle of the field out of range or else ducked under cover in the dugout. It took at least fifteen minutes for a squad of groundkeepers to clear the field of the bottles and cushions.

St. Louis' Fans Are Champs. Finally order was restored and the game was finished, but the event rans St. Louis fans as undisputed bottle-throwing champions of baseball. Some three years ago a similar bottle-thrower took place when the Yankees were playing the Browns and Whitey Witt of the New York club was struck on the head by a flying bottle and laid up in the hospital for weeks. Some years before that Umpire Evans was almost killed by a bottle thrown by a St. Louis fan.

The rioter rather dampened the heroic feat turned out by old Alex. The oldtimer held the Cubs to four hits in the ten innings and would surely have shut them out except for a home run by Charley Grimm in the seventh inning with one man on base. Grimm's homer was a real solid drive into the short right field stand. Grimm also made a single in the second inning, while Sparks Adams hit safely in the third, and Stephenson preceded Grimm's homer with a single. Only one other man reached first base, that being Heathcote, on a pass in the ninth.

Fans Rally McCarthy. Alex was cheered wildly as he moved down the Cubs' rounder for the second time. McCarthy, Cubs manager, who suspended Alex about two weeks ago and then let him go to St. Louis, was jabbed every inning as he coached at the third base corner. "Hello, Est Boy," yelled the fans as boss Joe walked across the field. "Make him like it, Alex!" was heard from another section.

Bob Osborne was on the rubber for the Cubs, doing valiant service, and it took an error in the tenth to beat him. Southworth had boosted a homer off him in the fifth, and two singles with an infield out got a run and hit in the seventh. In the tenth he belted Southworth, first man up. Bell sacrificed, O'Farrell was purposely passed, and then Freigau booted Thevenow's miler. That filed the bases. In this pinch Alex fanned, after nearly winning his own game with a long fly. It fell foul by a couple of yards. Blades then scratched a hit on a slow roller to Grimm and Southworth went over the plate with the winning run.

One Hit Off Blake. Sheriff Blake almost entered the hall of fame in the second game. He held the Cardinals hitless until after two were out in the seventh, when Southworth poled a single to right. That was the only safe blow the Cards made in the contest.

Washington and Navy Crews Hold Edge in Regatta Today

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 27.—The twenty-ninth annual regatta of the Intercollegiate Rowing association brings down the curtain here tomorrow on the season of college boat racing. The biggest fleet that has ever gone away from the stake boats here will start the four mile grind down under the bridge, and the winner will have a strong claim to the title of the best crew of the year.

Eight crews, Washington, Columbia, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Navy, California, Cornell and Syracuse will be in this race, and the winner will have to dispute its honors only with Yale of the crews which are not rowing here. Six crews in the junior varsity race and five in the freshmen event bring the total figure to nineteen.

Crews Finish Training. Veteran water men here tonight are describing the race as one in which anything may happen. Considerable interest is attached to the Wisconsin crew, coached by Dad Vail, and the only midwestern entry. There is more interest in the freshmen race than there has been for years because of Columbia's great combination and the powerful California lot. But it is on the struggle between

Elizabeth Ryan, Suzanne May Quit Wimbledon Tennis

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 27.—(AP)—There is no certainty of either Miss Ryan or Miss Lengien's appearing on the Wimbledon tennis courts tomorrow. Although Suzanne was out of doors today, her doctor is still urging her to abandon the tournament. To her friends she insists she is eager to continue and is inclined to disobey the doctor's orders, so as not to disappoint the Wimbledon spectators. Miss Lengien will make her final decision in the morning, and if she is unable to meet Miss Beckenham in the singles, it is understood that she will not ask any further indulgence, but will scratch.

Inquiry at Miss Ryan's residence disclosed that she was feeling better, but was still weak. The nature of Miss Ryan's illness has not been disclosed. The fact that for a time she had a temperature of 102 degrees.

George Armbrust, chairman of the race committee of the Chicago Yacht club, today will send out amended rules for the Mackinac island race which starts on Saturday, July 24.

Clinch was appointed to amend the rules. They have made changes which greatly favor the schooners and yawls, and hope the amended rules will meet the situation and result in a closer race all around.

By hitting his twenty-fifth home run of the season yesterday Babe Ruth of the New York Yankees is only three games behind his record for 1921, the season he drove out 51 circuit drives. Ruth and his teammates, Tony Lazzeri, were the only American league notables to accomplish much in the way of home runs last week. The Babe and Lazzeri each collected three. Rogers Hornsby of the St. Louis Cardinals and Glenn Wright of the Pittsburgh Pirates led the slugging last week in the National league. Both knocked out a pair of circuit drives. Amended Yacht Race Rules Help Schooners and Yawls

George Armbrust, chairman of the race committee of the Chicago Yacht club, today will send out amended rules for the Mackinac island race which starts on Saturday, July 24. The amendments will give the schooners and yawls a better chance of winning the race, which has been dominated by the Mackinac islanders for many years.

Allowance for Propellers. Schooners will be rated at 110 per cent of their measurement, and boats carrying propellers (engines to be sealed) will be given additional allowances. Sails must conform to the Chicago Yacht club's rules on racing trim.

These are the principal changes and under the new rules the list of ratings and time allowances for the following yachts which have competed in recent Mackinac island races are:

Four Mile Swim Is Sunday Drill for Miss Ederle

BY GERTRUDE EDERLE. (Copyright, 1926, by Tribune News Service.) CAPE GRIS-NEZ, France, June 27.—Sunday was no day of rest for Trudie, Trainer Burgess made me work harder than any day this season. I swam from Gris-Nez to Wissant, a distance of four miles, in the water. Burgess advised me to swim part way with Helmy, the Egyptian, thus slowing up my stroke. Helmy being a much slower swimmer than I. During the channel swim I will have to reduce my speed when ever Burgess thinks slow swimming is advisable, and it's good to get into the slow stroke because my natural tendency is to sprint on all occasions.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN. Bits of snappy fielding around second base at the right times and a few hits proved a winning prescription for the White Sox yesterday at Comiskey park. The snappy defensive contributions kept big Ted Blankenship, who is going strong and the timely clouts collected Sox, so the pale Hose left the St. Louis leads behind, bringing up the rear of a 6 to 3 score before about 18,000 customers.

For a few innings, had the pleasure TED BLANKENSHIP, of watching Bib Falk trying to hit the pitching of his big brother, Chester. Chester is a tall, loose jointed left hander and on a cloudy day might be taken for brother Bib. The lad had two chances to throw at the other member of his family and he did it so well that brother Bib didn't wobble anything safely. However, there were others who didn't tread the kid that kindly, so after five innings he went away for a pitch.

Ted Wobbles, But Recovers. Blankenship was a good hurler in the first two innings and in the last two, but in between he sagged a bit. In fact he sagged so much in the fifth and sixth that the boys in the Sox were fairly secure with four runs, but by way of making it more comfortable for all concerned they picked up a runner on Elam Vangilder in the sixth and seventh.

New York, June 27.—[Special.]

With the ending of the first half of 1926, it is natural that one should look for the watch towers of finance to toward what is in store for the rest of 1926 and what has happened in the last six months.

It has not been the usual tradition that a year would fail to disclose its economic character until midsummer. On the contrary, it was the spring months whose financial and industrial developments marked a new turn in the situation during such past years as 1920 and 1919, and such years as 1917 and 1915, and such pre-war years as 1909 and 1907.

July Month of Hopes.

It was July which fully dispelled the earlier misgivings of 1926, which turned the discouragement of the first half of 1926 into growing confidence, and which settled the question of industrial overproduction and reaction during 1925.

For three years the midsummer change of attitude was caused by definite events only in 1924.

On that occasion discovery that the United States would raise an abundant grain crop, while Europe would run short, altered judgment as to both financial and political results. For the other two years the altered view was occasioned only by actual midsummer reports from finance and trade—discouraging in 1923, highly reassuring in 1925.

Looking back over the first half of 1926, the main conclusion will be that the apprehensions entertained when the stock market was collapsing in March have not been verified.

The real estate speculation has certainly been halted; in some quarters with complete suspension of activity. Yet such consequent disturbance of the credit organism as has been more or less widely feared has occurred.

Values of Buildings Increase.

Taking the nation as a whole, while the placing of contracts for building construction lately has decreased in amount from that of earlier months, nevertheless their value in the five completed months of 1926 has been 17 per cent above last year, with an increase of 9 per cent in May alone.

Neither railway traffic nor bank exchanges have failed to maintain continuing increase over 1925 and over the corresponding months of all other years.

Even in May production of steel ran beyond the month's best previous record, and orders in the trade actually have increased in May and June, whereas those months witnessed a sharp decline during each of the last three years.

The money market ends the half year in a state of untroubled ease. These circumstances would ordinarily lead to cheerful inference for the future.

Yet it is undeniable that an atmosphere of doubt still surrounds the forecasts for the next six months. In a measure it has expressed these in the stock exchange, which has not recovered from the year's low prices has been checked abruptly, with subsequent reaction.

Some Declines in Prices.

Despite a phenomenal rise in the labor bureau's general average for 64 commodities in May, the "index number" for the textile group worked out that month the lowest since May, 1922; for the metal group the lowest since July, 1922, and for the building material group the lowest since October, 1924.

The second question of doubt appears to arise from the hypothesis that while the pace of building construction has slackened as compared with 1925, it may have increased in overconstruction, as far as concerns the prospect of filling the new structures with tenants to insure a profit on the new undertakings.

Factor of Farm Prices.

The third consideration has to do with agricultural prices taken by themselves; for that group of products the bureau's average for May stands five per cent above that of a year before, 11 1/2 per cent below the high level of August, 1925, and, in fact, at the lowest figure since September, 1924. The possible influence of this decline on the purchasing power of farming districts is no matter of controversy, but its political effect is considered independently, and the necessary uncertainty over the autumn campaign for congress, with the elections in November, constitutes the final element of doubt in the mind of the financial prophets.

AGENTS' ASSOCIATION RE-ELECTS J. H. DINGLE SECRETARY-TREASURER

John H. Dingle, member of the Boston & Dingle agency of the Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Company, 112 West Adams street, has been re-elected secretary and treasurer of the company's general agents' association.

Since the inception of the Boston & Dingle agency seven years ago, the members of this organization have produced in excess of $100,000,000 in business. It is now one of the largest insurance agencies in Chicago.

The association for which Mr. Dingle serves as secretary-treasurer is composed of men from the eighty agencies of the Massachusetts Mutual Life throughout the country.

COURT HEARING ON MUTUAL CASE IS SET FOR TODAY

Hearing is scheduled for today upon the demurrer filed last Wednesday by attorneys for the Lumbermen's Mutual Casualty company, 4624 Sheridan road, to the suit of Hugo Meyer, head of the Motorists' Association of Illinois, who seeks to enjoin the Lumbermen from taking judgment on a series of judgments given by him to the company.

"Mr. Meyer's suit against us is evidently a smoke screen to conceal his shortcomings in the handling of his insurance business," asserted an official of the Lumbermen's club, who avers his belief that no legal basis exists for the suit.

"The fact is we discontinued a sixty day binder in favor of Mr. Meyer's insurance exchange members only when he failed to make certain payments previously agreed upon."

The inter-insurance exchange was formerly connected with the defunct Illinois Automobile club. Mr. Meyer acts as its attorney-in-fact.

Judge Ira Ryner in Circuit court last week overruled a petition for injunction asked by Mr. Meyer to restrain the insurance company from soliciting 400 members of the exchange.

The court held that it was apparent that Mr. Meyer had failed to fully present all the facts as deemed necessary for a filing in equity. Information unfavorable to his cause had been withheld, the judge said.

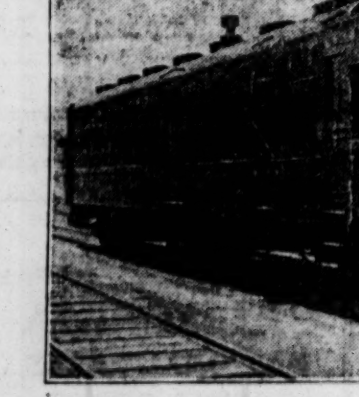

Mr. Meyer, manager of the North Shore Motor club, has denied that he has ever had any controversy with the Lumbermen's, as reported in a recent issue of a prominent insurance periodical.

Wilson Company Workers in Big Insurance Program

Group insurance totaling $15,000,000 has been arranged for 6,000 employees of Wilson company, Chicago packers, through a local life agency. The coverage, which is on the contributory plan, is based on the salary and length of service of each employee. Individual amounts range upwards from a sum equal to a year's salary.

LIFE INSURANCE ENJOYS ERA OF GOOD BUSINESS

BY CHARLES BARTON.

Chicago's life insurance companies and general agencies are reported to be handling an aggregate amount of business as large or larger than at any time in recent years. The average policy, however, is said to be somewhat smaller than at this time last year.

Sal of more policies is found necessary to make the same sort of a showing. This situation is declared to be a decided reversal of form. For several years past there has been a steady increase in the size of the average policy. It has been found that the old policyholder of any one company is the agent's best prospect. Larger policies are usually taken by the old customers than by the new.

Total of $1,097,768,000.

Writings of life insurance throughout the country were 5.5 per cent greater during May of this year than the same month of 1925, according to a report of the Association of Life Insurance Agents of America.

The importance of overseas markets is growing in proportion to our industrial and agricultural growth. Sales of American goods in foreign countries during 1925 totaled nearly $5,000,000,000. A statistical analysis of the export trade for the year shows almost every manufactured and raw material produced in the United States finding a market in one or more foreign countries. Yet an era of new values in the foreign trade of the United States is at hand, in the opinion of Dr. Klein.

Reconstruction of Europe. The reconstruction of Europe from industrial and commercial confusion has a twofold meaning for American export trade," he said. "Although it will heighten competition in certain articles and possibly cause a fractional loss in some of our best foreign trade areas, it will increase the purchasing power of the European countries which take over 51 per cent of our total exports and permit the purchase from us of badly needed articles."

"It will also mean increased European purchases of raw materials from Latin America and other producing areas, and thus the purchase of those areas so that they in turn will be in a position to buy more of the goods which we produce."

Business is good," Mr. Fiske said, "for when it falls off we feel it. We have not felt it yet."

Mr. Fiske revealed that policyholders in his company now total 23,000,000 or nearly one-fifth of the population of the United States.

URGENT NEWSPAPER ADS TO AID CAUSE OF INSURANCE

Great possibilities for insurance companies in newspaper advertising were forecast by Charles H. Holland, president of the Independence companies, at the insurance advertising conference held in Philadelphia last week.

"It cannot be doubted," Mr. Holland said, "that the right kind of newspaper advertising campaign would make vast hosts of friends for insurance. They would be recruited from among those who at present regard insurance premiums with a certain amount of silent resentment as a tax which they must pay."

"Such a campaign, conducted jointly by all classes of insurance, would open the way to hundreds of millions of dollars of additional premium income. At the same time it would interpret to the public a great business of which they are largely ignorant and therefore suspicious."

U. S. PLANS MORE DIRECT FOREIGN TRADE SERVICE

Bureau to Open 6 New Offices.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.) Washington, D. C., June 27.—[Special.]—Establishment of new branch offices of the department of commerce in the middle west and south, as a means of furnishing more direct service to industries engaged in foreign trade, was announced today by Dr. Julius Klein, director of the bureau of domestic and foreign commerce.

The new offices are to be located in Des Moines, Minneapolis, Louisville, Memphis, Houston and Galveston. Through them, Iowa, Nebraska, Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Northwest Wisconsin, Southern Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, Northern Mississippi, Arkansas, Texas and New Mexico will be brought into closer contact with the foreign trade promotion activities of the government.

Represented in 17 Cities.

With the new offices supplementing those already existing, the bureau will have direct representation in 17 cities with local chambers of commerce operating in the distribution of information on world markets for American goods in 36 other cities.

The importance of overseas markets is growing in proportion to our industrial and agricultural growth. Sales of American goods in foreign countries during 1925 totaled nearly $5,000,000,000. A statistical analysis of the export trade for the year shows almost every manufactured and raw material produced in the United States finding a market in one or more foreign countries. Yet an era of new values in the foreign trade of the United States is at hand, in the opinion of Dr. Klein.

Reconstruction of Europe. The reconstruction of Europe from industrial and commercial confusion has a twofold meaning for American export trade," he said. "Although it will heighten competition in certain articles and possibly cause a fractional loss in some of our best foreign trade areas, it will increase the purchasing power of the European countries which take over 51 per cent of our total exports and permit the purchase from us of badly needed articles."

"It will also mean increased European purchases of raw materials from Latin America and other producing areas, and thus the purchase of those areas so that they in turn will be in a position to buy more of the goods which we produce."

Business is good," Mr. Fiske said, "for when it falls off we feel it. We have not felt it yet."

Mr. Fiske revealed that policyholders in his company now total 23,000,000 or nearly one-fifth of the population of the United States.

Rules Auto Risk Policy No License for Negligence

Due care must be exercised by the driver of an insured automobile, avers a recent Michigan judicial ruling. The driver of an insured automobile must anticipate accidents due to negligent driving, the court held. In the case at issue the court upheld the insurance company's right in denying the indemnity of the Independence companies, at the insurance advertising conference held in Philadelphia last week.

"It cannot be doubted," Mr. Holland said, "that the right kind of newspaper advertising campaign would make vast hosts of friends for insurance. They would be recruited from among those who at present regard insurance premiums with a certain amount of silent resentment as a tax which they must pay."

"Such a campaign, conducted jointly by all classes of insurance, would open the way to hundreds of millions of dollars of additional premium income. At the same time it would interpret to the public a great business of which they are largely ignorant and therefore suspicious."

LIFE COMPANIES FIND MORTGAGE BEST PRODUCER

Mortgage investments of life insurance companies have yielded an average of 6.19 per cent on the dollar over a period of the last eleven years, according to the findings of an investigation made for the finance division of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Included in the investigation were 230 life insurance companies, all having assets in excess of $500,000 at the close of 1925. As contrasted with the yield from mortgage investments, the average yield to these concerns from stocks and bonds was only 4.76 per cent or 1.43 per cent less revenue per dollar.

Recognition of the desirability of the mortgage investments is declared responsible for a steady increase in that line since 1911. At the close of 1925 the combined life companies had a total of $4,775,000,000 in mortgage investments.

Record Quarterly U. S. Exports Are Reported

Washington, D. C., June 27.—[AP.]—The heaviest tonnage volume of ocean borne foreign commerce for any first quarter in the last five years was recorded in the report of 25,726,000 long tons for the United States for the first three months of 1926, made public today by the shipping board. This total was 674,000 tons greater than that of the last preceding quarterly period and 335,000 tons above the record of the first quarter in 1925.

An ocean borne import cargo tonnage of 10,514,000 tons in the first quarter of 1926 was 404,000 tons greater than the tonnage for the corresponding period of the preceding year, the report added.

DETROIT TRUST COMPANY, TRUSTEE, DETROIT, MICHIGAN

Payment of principal and interest unconditionally guaranteed by endorsement on each bond by Messrs. Guy A. Porter and Frank H. Porter, Principal Stockholders of the Company. LEGAL INVESTMENT FOR SAVINGS BANKS IN MICHIGAN

The following information is summarized from a letter by Mr. Guy A. Porter, President of the Company:

Business and Property: The White Pine Lumber Company owns in fee, in one tract, approximately 116,000 acres of lands in Sandoval County, New Mexico, a large portion of which is covered by an excellent stand of good quality pine timber, and owns and operates a modern lumber manufacturing plant at Bernalillo, New Mexico, about seventeen miles north of Albuquerque, on the main line of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway. This plant, located on a mill site of about 158 acres comprises a sawmill with two bands and a re-saw, planing mill and box factory, with the completion of this financing will have all necessary equipment for the production of about 120,000 feet of lumber per ten-hour day.

The Santa Fe Northwestern Railway, a standard gauge railroad, is also owned by The White Pine Lumber Company and connects the plant, logging railroad and woods operations, thereby providing ample facilities for the prompt and economical transportation of logs to the mill. It is estimated there are about one billion six hundred fifty million feet of timber in this locality, the only natural outlet for which is over the Company's railroad. The railroad with equipment, representing an investment of about $1,000,000 connects with the main line of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway at Bernalillo and, in addition to the transportation of forest products, will serve as a common carrier for a large territory, rich in mineral resources.

The White Pine Lumber Company is owned by a group of wealthy lumbermen and bankers.

Security: These bonds, in the opinion of counsel, are secured by a first (closed) mortgage on all properties owned by The White Pine Lumber Company, including all bonds and stocks issued by the Santa Fe Northwestern Railway Company, which have been deposited with the Trustee as collateral security under this mortgage. Based on the report and appraisals of Messrs. Thomas & Meserve, Timber Estimators and Forest Engineers, Portland, Oregon, as to the timber and giving effect to the depreciated book value of the railroad, plant, equipment and real estate, the total value of the properties securing this bond issue is as follows:

527,830,000 feet of Pine timber at $5.00 per thousand	$2,639,150
54 miles standard gauge railroad	$64,599
Saw-mill and equipment	$65,937
Real Estate (including mill site)	$160,472
Total valuation (In excess of 3.5 times this bond issue)	$4,420,158

Income: Based on past operation it is estimated that on an annual cut of 36,000,000 feet net realization and earnings of $360,000 per annum will be available for the payment of the principal and interest of this bond issue.

Sinking Fund: The trust deed provides for a sinking fund of $3.50 per thousand feet covering timber cut from the mortgaged lands, to be paid to the Trustee monthly. It also provides for the payment of $1.00 per thousand feet monthly to the Trustee for any timber cut from lands not owned by the Company. It is estimated that through the operation of this sinking fund these bonds will have been paid in full when about two-thirds of the timber covered by the mortgage has been cut.

Operating Advantages: The Company is advantageously situated because climatic conditions are favorable to an all-year-round operation both in the woods and at the mill; labor is cheap and abundant; and because of a favorable differential in freight rates.

In September, 1925, the Company was purchased by Central and South West Utilities Company, a subsidiary of Middle West Utilities Company. Since acquisition by Central and South West Utilities Company there has been a regrouping of its properties with the result that Central Power and Light Company is now almost entirely an operating company with a simplified corporate structure.

This maintenance provision is increased to 12 1/2% when the Company pays a dividend on its Common Stock.

EAST AWAKE TO PAINS FELT ON WESTERN FARMS

This from the National Bank of Commerce of New York is refreshing in that it varies from the prevailing bank economist comment directed at the west in a steady stream ever since the 1920 deflation.

There is no more of that advice to join the league of nations, cancel the allied debts, and all that sort of thing which was diligently preached at us so long. The debts are about disposed of and no greater European buying power is in sight, as was promised by some. Instead, Europe and the rest of the world are growing more grub at home.

Lower prices for the things the farmer buys mean some deflation for industry, labor, and city trade. Deflation like that of 1920, which took the shirk out of labor, the bunk out of management, the cream off profits, and the wind out of land booming is one thing. Deflation at the heels of a period of economy and efficiency is another thing.

If financial authority has no better prospect for American industrialists than another deflation it behooves the latter to consider whether they cannot devise some method by which they can share the benefit of a protected home market with the producer of basic raw materials. Sharing gains would be better than a common loss.

PAIANS FELT ON WESTERN FARMS

BY HARPER LEECH.

This from the National Bank of Commerce of New York is refreshing that it varies from the prevailing view of an economist comment directed at the west in a steady stream ever since the 1920 deflation.

Plausible attempts to prove that farmers are not at so great a disadvantage as they think they are look very bleak in the face of the steady drift of speculation from the land to the towns and cities. This situation is the result of the disparity which long has prevailed between prices of farm products and of manufactured goods.

It is difficult to see how agricultural prices as a whole can reasonably be expected to advance much in the face of existing conditions as to supply and demand. The more logical expectation is that prices of finished goods eventually will come down to meet the agricultural level."

There is no more of that advice to join league of nations, cancel the allied debts, and all that sort of thing which is diligently preached at us so long.

The debts are about disposed of and the greater European buying power is in the west, as was promised by some. In Europe and the rest of the world, the growing more grub at home.

The prevailing wage level has become firmly stabilized in American industry. Prices already give evidence of stabilization, as was in a way forecast in this column after the March stock slump.

It was argued that there could be no continuous price drop with wages remaining firm. Wholesale prices averaged under the first week of this month. The relation between farm and factory prices becomes almost constant. As long as prices gradually were moving toward the balance there was little disposition among sound thinkers in these parts to encourage any artificial attempts at adjustment. But things have changed and the balance must conform to things to be of anything but doctrinaire value. No one need subscribe to the extravagances of calamity howler. Yet no one need shut himself to the actual betterment of farm economics and life in the last quarter century to hold nevertheless that existing maladjustment calls for positive, not negative, measures.

Lower prices for the things the farmer means mean some deflation for industry, labor, and city trade. Deflation like that of 1920, which took the shirk out of the bunk out of management, the shirk off profits, and the wind out of the boom is one thing. Deflation at the heels of a period of economy and efficiency is another thing.

Following the immense bond issues of recent years, it would mean a great shift of buying power to certain classes, with increased productivity on their part, would not help the farmer pay his charges, because those dollars would have even more buying power and be that much harder to get.

The financial authority has no better prospect for American industrialism than another deflation it behoves them to consider whether they cannot find some method by which they can share the benefit of a protected home market with the producer of basic raw materials. Sharing gains would be better than a common loss.

WHEAT BEARISH; CORN SPREADS ASTOUND MANY

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

The wheat market has reached a stage at which traders expect lower prices, despite the decline of 3c in July and 8 1/2c in cash premiums here last week, unless there is a material increase in the milling, export demand and in speculative buying.

Both bulls and bears lack strong leaders at the moment. Prices are down to the lowest in several months. The week's finish was around the inside figures, showing losses of 5 1/2c on July 2c on September, and 1 1/2c on December as compared with a week before. Kansas City July wheat is off 5 1/2c, and September 3c, while Minneapolis July lost 7 1/2c, and Winnipeg 7c.

Bearish Conditions Count. Foreigners are not taking cash wheat in the southwest as freely as was expected two weeks ago, which makes exporters bearish for the time being. Viewed in the light of larger yields than expected in the southwest, and moderate improvements in other sections, it is not out of line to expect that the government report in July will increase the estimated winter wheat crop, previously estimated at 543,000,000 bu.

While there has been extensive damage in parts of the northwest, recent rains have brought improvement in other sections and the promise in Canada at present is good. July wheat in Chicago closed Saturday at $1.35 1/2, September $1.32 1/2, and December $1.35 1/2.

Prices for the week follow:
Monday 1.37 1/2, Tuesday 1.36 3/4, Wednesday 1.36 1/2, Thursday 1.36 1/4, Friday 1.36 1/4, Saturday 1.36 1/4, Sunday 1.36 1/4.

New Low for Corn Prices. Corn prices dropped to the lowest since 1920 last week, with a break of 5 1/2c on July from the high of the previous week, while September dropped 2 1/2c and December 1 1/2c. July broke to 65 1/2c, with the close on a rally at 69 1/2c, a loss of 1c for the week, while September closed only 1 1/2c lower and December 1 1/2c lower. The finish was at 75 1/4c for September and 76 1/4c for December.

At no time in the memory of the oldest corn traders have spreads of 5 1/2c to 6c existed between July and September corn in the Chicago market at this time of the year, with December 7 1/2c over the July.

American Bosch Magneto.

W. A. S. Pontiac, Ill.—The year 1925 was the best the American Bosch Magneto corporation has experienced since 1920.

Net profit after reserves, etc., was $251,382 in 1925, compared with $107,626 in 1924.

The 1925 earnings were equal to $2.51 a share on 207,259 shares of no par stock outstanding.

For the first quarter of 1926 the net income (before federal taxes) was $128,908, or 67 cents a share, against $76,632, or 55 cents a share, in the first quarter of 1925.

No dividends have been paid since 1921, but the funded debt has been eliminated and prospects appear better now than they have since that year.

The stock is of medium grade and highly speculative.

July, while last year the December was 12c under September.

Crop prospects are uncertain, and unless warmer weather comes at once the average growth of corn crop throughout the country will be below normal for fourth of July. Whether this will bring sufficient buying by those who operate on the "calendar" plan to advance and sustain a higher level in uncertain. A little later crop conditions will be a market factor. Prices for the week follow:

Oat prices have declined in sympathy with corn and on liquidating sales with poor buying support, the main market prices being the changing over of hedges from July to September by cash interests with a widening of the difference between July and the deferred futures.

NEW REALTY FIRM FORMED.

Formation of a new real estate financing and mortgage business in Chicago was announced yesterday by Robert G. Becker. It will be conducted under his name. Offices have been opened in the Illinois Merchants Bank building, 331 South La Salle street.

Although the rice crop is short, the speculative buying which recently advanced prices sharply dropped off, and prices receded under liquidating sales and in sympathy with wheat. Foreign buying has also been disappointing and the close was around the lowest of the week, with July 90c, off 4 1/2c, as compared with a week ago; September 93 1/2c, off 4 1/2c, and December 97 1/2c, off 3 1/2c for the week. Eastern interests appear to think more of the rice trade than do local interests, who understand the market situation here more clearly.

Provision prices finished the week at around the lowest, although losses on lard were only 1 1/2c, while short ribs lost 7c and bellies 3 1/2c.

Sunday Radio Gems Romp to Elmer's Ears

Solos, Chorals, Orchestras in Competition.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.
Summer's first Sunday was pleasantly celebrated yesterday by soloists, choral bodies, and orchestras. Foremost and uppermost looms the Harvester Choral society, W-G-N, 3 to 4. It was a bounding, bounding, spirited affair, perhaps to a degree not hitherto equalled. It was spirited as to their voices, in the tempo of the selections, and in the selections themselves. Furthermore, the various vocal and other qualities necessary to make a thoroughly enjoyable radio performance were here in profusion. I hope this society gives the radio audience further opportunities to hear them.

During the same hour from WQJ, a program of Eucharistic music was given at WQJ by the senior choir of St. Ita's church. Being human, I know I did not do them full justice. But, fortunately, being good choral singers, and the soloists, unusual to say, thoroughly good, every one of them, they did not need watching.

I know I am not making a mistake in devoting this space once again in unqualified praise of the band concert and choir singing preliminary to the Chicago Gospel tabernacle service, WHT, 6:30 to 7:30. Frankly, during this informal hour it just seems natural to whistle or sing with them, or simply listen at one's heart's ease.

Somehow, the Thoburn M. E. church preliminary musical program, WGN, 7:45, took on the air of a miniature musical festival last night. Their orchestra is not perfection, of course, but it adds a goodly touch of orchestral coloring. The choir, organ and soloists—especially the tenor soloist, last evening—seemed in their best mood.

We must hand it to the Edison Symphony orchestra for putting over most excellent music in an expert's finished way on Sundays, KYW, 9. Some day when there is nothing much doing I wish they would try giving complete symphonies instead of single selections. I believe the radio audience would give them a warm reception for so doing.

PAPAL LEGATE DEPARTS TODAY FOR ST. LOUIS

Accompanied to the Dearborn station by an escort of Knights of St. Gregory, Cardinal Bonzano, papal legate to the Eucharistic congress, and Cardinal O'Donnell, primate of all Ireland, will leave Chicago this afternoon for St. Louis at 2 o'clock, daylight saving time. There the cardinal legate will officiate on Tuesday at the consecration of the magnificent St. Louis cathedral.

On Wednesday the centenary of the St. Louis archdiocese will be celebrated with a pontifical high mass at the cathedral, which is still unfinished, after nearly twenty years of work. In compliment to Archbishop John J. Glennon, through whose efforts the cathedral was built, Cardinal Bonzano will remain to participate in the archdiocesan jubilee, and plans to return to Chicago about July 1 for a short visit before leaving for Seattle, where he will be guest of his old friend, Archbishop O'Dea. He will sail for Naples, Italy, July 24. Yesterday he made a brief address at May's Lake, near Hinsdale, where pontifical high mass was celebrated.

From St. Louis, Cardinal O'Donnell will go to Philadelphia to attend the sesquicentennial exposition. He will sail July 3 for his home at Armagh, Ireland.

The Stout or Near Stout Figure Calls Loudly for a Corset

With corsets the comfortable things they are nowadays, one wonders why more figures aren't confined in them. You do see such sights in a day's walk, since word got around that they would not have to wear stays unless you feel like it.

I cannot set any weight registration at which a woman should not be permitted to wear corsets—but if one has a full bust, a protruding abdomen, an inflated diaphragm or a large protruding back she ought to be merciful enough to herself, if not to others, to bind herself in a respectably close fitting undergarment.

If women held themselves better on the whole, walked a bit more "composely," as it were, they would not be so often confronted by unseemly sights. Since they don't, the corset ought to be called in to correct the "wabbles." It is under the light summer silks and muslins they're needed more than beneath the twills and serges of winter.

The excuse cannot be honorably presented that it is too hot to wear them. Nothing is too hot to wear that preserves one from early. Besides, the summer weight girdle and slips found in frames of today provide against the heat emergency quite well, indeed.

No woman of "a certain poundage," which may be any number that leads the figure off that straight and narrow line, can fool herself about being able to go corsetless if she has an honest mirror around the house and gives it an honest look now and then.

The straight figure is in permanent fashion the season "round." If nature or food has by any chance bulged you here or there, let the corset control or disguise the bulging. This is the particular and splendidly executed job of the modern corset. It can do the most amazing things in tucking away flesh and holding it securely without the slightest damage to health. In fact, our medical authorities do not approve of women of fleshy maturity going without some sort of abdominal support for purely health reasons. For aesthetic reasons the younger person should bow to the straight line of the silhouette with the aid of a corset. The protruding back can be anchored with a corset cut long with back garters firmly adjusted.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

L. M. B. USING MEANS TO PREVENT perspiration under the armpits is not injurious to the general health. An excellent remedy is a 25 per cent solution of aluminum chloride in distilled water. Dab gently on the parts every other day or every third day until three applications have been made. Allow the lotion to dry on thoroughly before permitting the clothing to touch the skin.

MISS MCQ: A MOLE IS SOME-thing that should be treated by a reputable skin specialist. Do not attempt to treat it yourself, as you are liable to do permanent damage.

Lonely Person's Greatest Enemy Is Simply Herself

By DORIS BLAKE.

"I am 24 years old and have been employed in the city for the last three years. My trouble is loneliness. For some reason or other I do not seem to attract either men or women friends. The consequence is I spend most of my time after work reading and watching I had friends like other young women. What do you think is the matter—Blue?"

When a young woman of 24 attracts neither men nor women friends, she ought to be fair enough to sit down some quiet evening and have it out with the one who must be at fault—her very own self.

A woman of that age should not have to sit in her boarding house room night after night. Nor would she have to sit in her room and wonder how the old formula of being a friend in order to have one cannot be improved upon as the cure for loneliness. I know it is difficult for some women to come out of their shells and be sociable. But if they really understood the nature of their shells they would change, no matter what the effort. People who are avoided are usually cheerful, friendly, and agreeable, or they are selfish, self-centered or conceited.

It is impossible in the course of three years' employment in a city not to have contact with a few people who have companionship to offer in return for companionship given. It is no one is going to take the time to dig down beneath a forbidding exterior to discover qualities that are worthy.

I am convinced that people who are friendless have only themselves to blame. They refuse to cultivate the qualities that attract. It isn't lack of opportunity to meet people, but refusal to see in people they meet the very things they wish others could see in them. With a happy disposition and a genuine interest in other people you simply cannot escape having friends. I'll wager if "Miss Blue" starts out tomorrow with a changed attitude toward her co-workers she'll find material for splendid companionship right in the midst of her working day.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

'Twould Be Unwise.

"Dear Miss Blake: I love a boy who loves me. I am 19 and he is 21. It is right for us to marry?"

"Decidedly not, Brown Eyes. Marriages contracted at such an early age too often end disastrously. Your tastes are not settled."

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Salt Pork in Milk Gravy.

"Perhaps the following recipe is not the 'what mother used to make,' or what Dr. W. would like, but it is good. Mrs. W. it seems, has not yet been able to satisfy her husband, and satisfy his recollection and taste at the same time, although she has tried making milk gravy after trying liver and came near to it."

The milk gravy with salt pork is now known how to make in summer time, by those who camp or have a home far from market, because when carefully prepared it may be used with plain boiled potatoes, or even on toast. First, have the piece of pork hard, or stiff, by chilling so that it will not melt when cut. In an out of door cooler the stiffening of it can be effected as well as on ice. Cut the meat into long thin pieces, about one-half inch square. Try a little pork out in the frying pan, or use other fat, like butter, if you prefer to fry these pieces in it. Roll the pieces in flour, which may be seasoned to taste, and fry them in this way as to have them gently browned on all sides. They might be browned in deep fat, but four rolled things are not good for the fat. If fried in the frying pan, and turned constantly, or given almost constant attention, the leftover flour may be put in at one side and stirred while it browns for a brown gravy.

When the pork has been put in the pan or not, stir it into the fat in the pan, after taking up the pork, which has been cooked and daintily browned. After the fat and flour are well blended add the necessary milk—one cup to each two tablespoons of flour—stir until smooth, and fill it boils. Then put in cooked pork and allow to stand until ready to use. Twenty minutes of cooking heat is too much for the gravy.

There is no drink in the world so cooling and refreshing as

iced INDIA TEA

IF made correctly, as given below, it thoroughly tones the system and aids digestion. It stimulates and cheers. You can get India Tea nearly everywhere. Your Soda Fountain attendant will gladly make it for you; or you can get India Tea from your dealer and prepare it yourself as follows:—

Use one teaspoonful of tea for each glass of tea.

Be sure the water is poured into the teapot the moment it boils. Allow to stand for 4 or 5 minutes to infuse.

Fill the glass with cracked ice, add a slice of lemon, and pour in the tea.

Add sugar to taste.

Try India Tea, either hot or cold, for a little while, and you will drink it regularly. No other drink possesses the same delicious fragrance and stimulating—though harmless—effect.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 28.—[Call.]—Unofficial prohibition imposed from other states and from a fund contributed by Woman's Christian Temperance union are enforcing Pennsylvania's laws.

This was admitted today to senate committee investigating expenses by William B. Wright, deputy attorney general of Pennsylvania.

Gets $8,000 a Year.

Wright also admitted that enforcement of the law is not being carried out as state or federal officers and himself, a resident of Baltimore, draws an $8,000 salary from the W. C. T. U. fund as director of the unit. From the witness Senator Reed (Dem., Mo.) developed how Wright "under cover" aids cause about state, spending the dry organization in cabarets and speak easies, buying "buys" of liquor on which his base petitions for padlock injunctions. Out of 275 such applications only about 30 were successful, Wright admitted.

Probed W. C. T. U. Funds.
The Pennsylvania "superintendent" first came to the attention of the committee when it was reported that the W. C. T. U. had raised $100 for Gov. Pinchot's campaign expenses in the senatorial primary. Rumors were that the money had been used to insure enforcement of liquor law when the state legislature passed an appropriation and that it had been diverted to the senator's campaign fund.

When officials of the W. C. T. U. disagreed in their testimony over disposition of the $131,000 which actually raised and known as "Pinchot law enforcement fund," committee subpoenaed George Woodruff, the state attorney general, and Wright.

After the committee had waited an hour for Mr. Woodruff to appear this morning, Wright explained that he had left Harrisburg on Saturday to attend the Harvard-Yale boat race.

Brought in by Pinchot.
Wright testified that he came to Baltimore at the request of Gov. Pinchot in February, 1923, to enforce the state prohibition law that was passed in August of the year before. He received $10,000 from the W. C. T. U. and expenses from the W. C. T. U. until early in 1926, when the salary was boosted to $8,000.

Walter F. Miller, a former department of justice agent, was employed by Wright's assistant and paid the W. C. T. U. fund, and Miller "under cover" men from former states who had left the federal service. At one time, Wright testified, he borrowed two Boston, Mass., policemen for the dry squad. "Salaries were refunded to the Boston treasury from the W. C. T. U. fund," he said.

"Who had charge under the enforcement of the prohibition law?" asked Senator Reed. "I suppose the attorney general," answered the witness, "but he was not in charge of the legal enforcement?" asked Senator Reed. "Yes," answered the witness, "I was in charge of the legal enforcement, other than to identify 'X,' 'Y,' 'Z,' or 'Mr. Zero,' whose identity was made public. This committee does not believe in 'under cover' men."

Says Secrecy Is Essential.
"I don't, either," asserted Wright, "but that secrecy is essential. The names of the donors are to be found and used. Mr. X, according to Wright, paid $250 a month and his expenses from the W. C. T. U. fund. "I said, including the purchase of liquor and beer in the performance of duty."

Mr. X goes about buying liquor and beer, each paid $150 a month, following his tips, follow later to find and arrest the proprietor, he said. Among other vouchers produced...
